

$25,000 Damage Caused by Fire In Castle Hall

Conflagration Discovered at 4:40 This Morning ORIGIN UNKNOWN Blaze Starts in Basement and Spreads To Roof

Fire of unknown origin early this morning caused damage estimated at over $25,000, to Castle hall, Knights of Pythias building, at 205 E. Lawrence street. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

The alarm was turned in at 4:40 this morning and firemen had the conflagration under control within an hour. Fire Chief George P. McGillan said.

The blaze started in a basement storeroom at the southwest corner of the building, burned to the attic and swept along the entire roof. Water and falling embers damaged parts of the building not touched by fire. The fire was confined to the interior of the hall and the outer brick walls remained standing.

Fire Chief McGillan said the fire evidently had been burning for sometime before it was discovered because when firemen arrived the blaze had already spread to the roof.

Roof Destroyed

The flames spread to the roof behind the stage in the main hall causing most damage to the rear part of the building. Sweeping along the large attic, flames destroyed the entire roof and started to burn down the interior at the front of the building on the north end. It was here that firemen cut off the blaze.

All equipment of the fire department was called to the scene. Eight lines of hose were laid and 2,000 gallons of water per minute were played on the building. Because of the building's height two deluge lines were used. This is a combination of two lines to give added pressure to a stream of water.

Cold handicapped the firemen who were covered with ice within a short time. Trouble also was experienced with freezing water in a couple hoses as firemen began work. Ice formed about the outside of the hoses making them hard to handle. More than 25 firemen fought the blaze.

Little Wind

The conflagration remained confined to Castle hall as the wind, which was brisk, early last night, had died down about midnight. Those sparks that did carry off to the tops of surrounding homes failed to do any damage as the roofs were covered with snow.

An alarm was turned in at 5:58 when it was reported that some sparks were seen burning on the roof of the Superior Knitting works. Firemen went to the scene but found the report groundless.

Firemen remained at the hall throughout the morning although the fire was practically killed by 9 o'clock.

No Immediate Plans

The Knights of Pythias held a meeting in the hall last night. Records were being removed from the damaged building today and George Krueger, chancellor commander, said that a meeting probably will be called within a few days to determine future plans regarding the building.

Castle hall was formerly the Methodist church. The building was converted for use by the Pythians after the purchase on Oct. 15, 1925 by the Pythian club. The club sold the building to the trustees of the Pythian lodge the following year.

Ernie Lee Given Life Sentence for Murder

Milwaukee—(U)—Ernie Lee, 32, was convicted by a jury on a first degree murder charge last night and sentenced by Municipal Judge Max W. Nohl to a life term at Waupun prison.

Sheriff Edward J. Mitten said Lee would be taken to Waupun today.

The murder charge grew out of the death of James Thornberg, 42, shot last Oct. 16 in an alley behind a building where he was caretaker and landlord. The state contended Lee shot Thornberg after the latter ordered him out of the building at the request of a tenant.

The jury deliberated an hour and 50 minutes before returning a verdict. In his instruction to the jury Judge Nohl said three verdicts were possible—first degree murder, which the state demanded; second degree murder, with a 15 to 25 year prison term, and justifiable homicide.

Nanking Fall Is Imminent, Japs Report

Nipponese Claim Capture Of Principal South-eastern Gate

MOUNTAIN SEIZED

Chinese Commander Ignores Ultimatum Demanding Surrender

Shanghai—(U)—(Saturday)—The Japanese command announced today that Kuanghuamen, principal southeastern gate in Nanking's massive walls, had been captured by a detachment of Japan's Ninth division.

Japan's Rising Sun banner was raised over the gate as soon as it was taken, late Friday.

Nipponese infantry surged through this breach in the defenses of China's erstwhile capital and occupied adjoining sections of the walls.

Seizure of Kuanghuamen came as the climax of a battle which began with a Japanese general assault on Nanking early in the afternoon, after the Chinese defenders had ignored a Japanese ultimatum demanding surrender by noon Friday.

(Domel), the Japanese news agency, reported to Tokyo that Japanese troops were engaged in bloody hand-to-hand fighting in Nanking streets after seizing Kuanghuamen and another gate.

General Iwane Matsui, commanding Japanese forces in the Shanghai-Nanking region, sent congratulations to the commander of the detachment that captured the gate on "the accomplishment of your difficult task."

Won't Surrender

The Japanese attack was launched when the Chinese commander, General Tang Seng-Chi, refused to heed Japanese General Iwane Matsui's ultimatum to surrender the city by noon or face a general assault.

Four hours later Japanese asserted a part of the 100,000 troops encircling the city had captured Purple mountain overlooking Nanking. Chinese positions on the hill previously had kept the Japanese from a frontal assault.

Six hours later the Japanese spokesman said he "assumed" that Japanese troops already had penetrated Nanking's great wall and were engaged in "mopping up operations" which he explained meant street fighting.

The spokesman said he had no details of the operations.

Reveal Plot to Murder Delbos

French Police Seize Letter Giving Details Of Plan

Valencennes, France—(U)—A plot to assassinate French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos was discovered here today by police who seized a coded letter giving details of the plan.

The letter, police said, was addressed to a Hungarian terrorist now in jail here.

He is Koloman Budai, arrested here on Nov. 8 charged with firing shots through the windows of the League of Nations building at Geneva in 1935.

The letter revealed, police said, that Budai had given information to a band of terrorists to facilitate an attempt on Delbos' life while he was in Praha on his present swing through central and eastern Europe.

Murderer Kills Himself To Escape Executioner

Boise, Ind.—(U)—A sensational suicide plunge before the eyes of his sorrowing parents cheated the hangman of triple-slayer Douglas Van Vlack's life.

Van Vlack, convicted of killing his wife, was to have been hanged at 12:10 a. m. (M. S. T.) Four hours before, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Van Vlack of Tacoma, Wash., came to bid him goodbye.

Van Vlack kissed his mother, broke from his guards, climbed to the top of a 30-foot cell block and dived off. His head and shoulders crashed against the concrete floor.

15 Persons Hurt When Street Car Runs Wild

Cleveland—(U)—Fifteen persons were injured today, some seriously when a crowded street car ran wild and left the rail on a curve at the foot of steep Cedar hill on the city's east side.

Patrolman Milo Sebek said the icy condition of the wheels and tracks caused the accident.

The car snapped from its tracks, skidded 50 feet and trapped occupants as it came to rest on its side.

Firemen and police chopped through the side of the car to rescue the 30 passengers.

Burglars Do Their 'Christmas Shopping Early' This Morning

Christmas shoplifting was done early this morning in stores at Black Creek and Seymour with the disappearance of a variety of articles suitable for Christmas presents and having a combined value of $350.

Burglaries were committed at the R. H. Gehrk and Co. Hardware store at Black Creek and the Leo J. Kahnt Shoe store at Seymour and Outagamie authorities today were investigating the thefts.

The front door of the hardware store was entered sometime after midnight by means of a crow bar and the burglars, apparently two, utilized clothes baskets to carry off revolvers, shot guns, a rifle, radios, a vacuum sweeper, seven watches, shells, electric toasters, a waffle iron, Christmas tree lights and bill folds, all valued at $350. The safe was ransacked but no money is kept in the store at night, the proprietor said today.

The theft was discovered at 7 o'clock this morning by Vernon Thiel, an employee, and footprints leading to auto tire tracks north of the building were believed to be those of the marauder.

Merchandise valued at $50 was stolen from the Seymour shoe store apparently between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning. The building was entered through a basement window and galoshes, shoes, hip boots and several dozen pairs of work gloves were taken from the basement.

Murder Syndicate Chief and Woman Sought in France

Confessed Slayer Also Implicates Another Man In Killer Gang

Paris—(U)—Roger "Scarface" Million and Jean "The Little One" LeBlanc, sought by police as accomplices in a slaying-kidnaping gang which numbered among its victims Jean DeKoven, Brooklyn dancer, surrendered to police today. Million, the Paris prefecture said, gave himself up in Paris. LeBlanc surrendered at Versailles.

Paris—(U)—The asserted scarface chief of an abduction-death syndicate, whose "expert in murder" siew Jean DeKoven, Brooklyn dancer, escaped a police net and was sought today by roving patrols along the highways of southeastern France.

With him, police said, were his mistress and a third suspect. Judiciary police first had announced their capture, but later changed this to say the three had fled their hotel at Nantua last night.

The trio fled, police said, after a mysterious telephone call to their apartment. Leaving all their baggage behind, the three left Nantua in a blue automobile.

Authorities identified the alleged leader of the band that sought to build an efficient, profitable business on kidnapping and death as Roger Million, 25, a Frenchman. His mistress, police said, was a blonde Frenchwoman.

Authorities believed Million to be the man who employed Eugene Weidmann, 29-year-old German former convict, as killer for the gang. Weidmann has confessed the killing Miss DeKoven and four men, one of them a member of the supposed syndicate in crime.

The strangling of Miss DeKoven and the shooting of Weidmann's former associate, Fritz Frommer, were but two of the curly-haired German's confessed ventures into wholesale murder. Three other men fell under his gun, bullets in their heads.

The Preussen was in sight of the Hoover, whose captain, George Yardley, asked how many passengers the Preussen could take on.

Roosevelt for Limited Aid To Railroads

Says Solvency Must be Preserved Under Private Ownership

ACTION NECESSARY

U. S. Subsidy Would Work Toward State Socialism, He Asserts

Washington—(U)—The interstate commerce commission overruled today a petition by the nation's railroads for an immediate 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

The action was announced by Commissioner Clyde B. Atchison, at the outset of this afternoon's hearing on the carriers' request for a permanent rate boost in that amount.

Washington—(U)—President Roosevelt said today the interstate commerce commission should seek to preserve the solvency of the nation's railroads with a view to retaining them under private management and private ownership.

Discussing the financial situation of the carriers at a press conference, the president said the quicker a final determination was reached on the roads' application for higher freight rates the better it would be for all around.

He said he wanted to avoid government ownership but at the same time, he reminded railroad reverserships could not continue without some steps being taken to adjust their financial set-up.

Asked if a government subsidy was planned, he warned that such a proposition was one which would be working toward straight state socialism and once that was started the same probably would be done with oil and other industries.

Mr. Roosevelt said the administration had no definite plan to help the railroads, adding the interstate commerce commission was the only federal agency authorized to deal with the problem.

Small Loans Possible

Asked if the Reconstruction Finance corporation was planning more loans to railroads, the president said he had discussed that with Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, Wednesday only in relation to one or two roads which seem to need a very small amount of temporary financing.

He shook his head when asked if the post of federal coordinator of railroads was to be revived.

Describing the railroad situation as the most difficult faced by the nation, the president recalled a 1934 statement by former Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman saying the carrier situation had improved temporarily but that no one on the commerce commission felt a permanent solution was at hand.

He added the question was no nearer a permanent solution today. The president indicated the roads must readjust over capitalizations and abandon more trackage in areas that might be served by only one railroad and where trucks and buses could do the job.

For example, he said if a road was capitalized for $200,000,000 and had only a net earning power for a $100,000,000 capitalization, a question was posed what to do about it. Pressed for an explanation, the president replied that you could not get blood out of a stone.

Roosevelt Says 'No Vacancy' at London

Washington—(U)—President Roosevelt said today there was no vacancy in the London ambassadorship when asked at a press conference if Ambassador Robert W. Bingham had resigned and Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the maritime commission had been selected for the post.

Asked to amplify what he meant by no vacancy, the president repeated that was all he could say on the subject.

The president told the reporters he expected to announce soon the appointment of a new ambassador to Berlin. William E. Dodd, ambassador to Germany since June, 1933, has resigned effective next month. Hugh R. Wilson, assistant secretary of state and former minister to Switzerland, is in line for the post.

House Reverses Self On Compulsory Wheat Quotas; Nearing Ballot

Members Clash on One-Man Wage-Hour Standards Rule

BATTLE PROBABLE

Committee Adopts Amendment by 9 To 6 Ballot

Washington—(U)—Disagreement developed among house members today over a committee proposal that wage-hour standards be administered by one man in the labor department instead of by an independent board.

The house labor committee adopted the single-administrator amendment to the wage-hour bill last night by a 9 to 6 vote.

Its decision ended a day of behind-the-scenes conferences in which administration leaders apparently won enough southern support to stave off Republican attacks on the entire measure.

The committee's single-administrator idea is in direct conflict with the two-man board authorized in the bill passed by the senate last summer.

The senate proposal has widespread support in the house, informed persons said, so that a scrap is in prospect when the bill comes up for debate Monday.

Tied Up in Committee

The measure has been bottled up in the house rules committee since summer, and only the unusual procedure of obtaining a petition signed by a majority of house members shook it loose.

The single-administrator amendment envisions the use of advisory committees as an aid in determining wage-hour standards. The administrator would appoint an equal number of spokesmen from employed and labor groups for each industry. These in turn would choose a group representing the public.

The entire group's recommendations would go to the administrator, who could accept or reject them and call for a new report. If the second report failed to satisfy him, he could start all over with a new committee.

Present Provisions

Under the legislation as it stands, the maximum work week could be set as low as 40 hours and the hourly wage rate could be fixed as high as 40 cents.

Most southerners had opposed the bill as a whole, on the ground that it did not insure a differential in pay scales between the north and south.

Party leaders said, however, they had reached a compromise by which northern representatives would vote for lower minimum wages in the south, in return for support on other controversial provisions.

Representative Dockwoiler (D-Calif.) will try to substitute on the floor the wage-hour bill favored by the American Federation of Labor. This measure would impose flat 40-hour week and 40-cent wage provisions on all interstate industry.

Dalhover Facing Death Sentence

Brady Gangster Must Pay Extreme Penalty, Jury Decides

Hammond, Ind.—(U)—Diminutive James Dalhover, cold-blooded "trucker man" of the nefarious Brady gang which terrorized mid-west bankers and business men for more than a year, must die in the electric chair for the ruthless murder of State Policeman Paul V. Minneman.

A federal jury deliberated only 2 hours and 17 minutes yesterday afternoon before reaching the verdict that Dalhover, who pleaded guilty Nov. 15, should pay the extreme penalty. The jury, charged with determining only the punishment, heard evidence four days.

Federal Judge Thomas W. Shek said today he would confer with attorneys and decide Monday on a sentence pronounced today.

The "pint-sized" gunman denied on the witness stand firing the shot which killed Minneman from ambush near Royal Center, Ind., May 23, but admitted he was with the electric chair for the ruthless murder of State Policeman Paul V. Minneman.

Minneman was slain while pursuing Brady, Shaffer and Dalhover after the $26,688 robbery of the Goodland (Ind.) bank.

Brady and Shaffer were killed Oct. 12 at Bangor, Maine, by federal agents who captured Dalhover.

Admits Taking Part in Butternut Bank Holdup

Madison—(U)—Edward A. Zblewski, arrested near Stevens Point, pleaded guilty before United States Commissioner J. J. McManamy today to a charge of participation in the $550 holdup of the Northern State bank at Butternut, Oct. 26. He was held under $10,000 bond for sentence before Judge Patrick T. Stone.

NOT CANDIDATE

Former Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas would not accept the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1940 should it be offered to him, he announced today. He said he was making the statement to enable him to "be more active in Republican party affairs."

Landon Will Not Run for Office in 1940, He Asserts

Makes Announcement to Enable Him to be 'More Active in Party'

Washington—(U)—Former Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas said today he would not be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1940 and would not accept the nomination should it be offered to him.

The 1936 nominee made the announcement to newspaper men upon arrival here for the Gridiron club, a newspaper men's organization, dinner.

Landon emphasized, however, that his statement did not mean he was withdrawing from politics.

"I am taking this step so I can be more active in Republican party affairs," he said.

Soon after he reached the capital the governor was invited by a White House secretary, by telephone, to visit President Roosevelt at 4:30 this afternoon.

The purpose of the conference of two days later was not immediately disclosed. Landon will be accompanied by Senator Capper (R-Kans).

Won't Run Again

Asked if he wanted to take "another whirl" at the Republican nomination, Landon hesitated a second, then said:

"It is presumptuous to decline something that has not been offered to me."

"I have not had any intention of being a candidate in 1940 and in order that my position may be perfectly clear I will not accept the nomination in the remote contingency that the Republican national convention should offer it to me."

"A man who is in the position of being suspected of being either an active, or receptive candidate cannot render the service either to his party or to his country that I conceive to be my patriotic duty and responsibility in the critical situation confronting us."

Concerning a meeting of the Republican National Executive committee at St. Louis next week to select a program committee of one hundred, Landon said he hoped men who "represent every 'hady' of opinion and group in the party" would be chosen.

"The cond that such a policy may do will depend on whether it studies policies for the party, or attempts to dictate policies."

Landon, when questioned about economic conditions, said the "great need today is mutual confidence between government and business."

Raabe Murder Trial Goes to Jury Today

Milwaukee—(U)—Judge Robert S. Cowie announced today four possible verdicts for each of the defendants will be submitted for the jury's consideration at the trial of four Chicago men for the murder of acting Detective George H. Raabe. The case is expected to go to the jury today.

The possible verdicts the court will submit are:

First degree or premeditated murder, punishable by life imprisonment.

Second degree murder, which the law defines as the killing of another, without design to effect death, in a manner evincing a depraved mind; punishable by 14 to 25 years' imprisonment.

Third degree murder, defined as the killing of another without any design to effect death by a person engaged in the commission of a felony; punishable by seven to 10 years' imprisonment; and

Not guilty.

Boileau Plan to Safeguard Dairy Industry Stays in Bill

DELAY IN SENATE

Upper House May Not Reach Final Passage This Term

Washington—(U)—The house, reversing itself, decided by a 219 to 175 vote today to restore compulsory control for wheat to the administration farm bill.

Speaker Bankhead announced the result of the roll-call ballot which put wheat marketing quotas back in the measure.

On the motion of Representative Coffee (D-Nebr.) the house had stricken compulsory wheat control from the bill.

Administration leaders have contended elimination of the wheat quota system would rob the legislation of one of its vital features.

After the wheat vote, the house ordered a separate roll call vote on the amendment by Representative Boileau (R-Wis.) to deny soil conservation payments to farmers who plant dairy feed crops for market on land withdrawn from soil-depleting crops.

But this time the representatives refused to reverse themselves. Revolving administration leadership, the house approved finally the Boileau amendment intended to protect the dairy industry from the threat of new competition in the south and west by a vote of 202 to 188.

This action confirmed the 114 to 95 vote by which the Boileau amendment was inserted a week ago.

Washington—(U)—The house rejected a Republican proposal today to compel use of civil service employees in administering the pending farm program.

The proposal came from Representative Luce (R-Mass.) and brought from Representative Treadway (R-Mass.) a word of caution for Democrats—not to send requests for $25 contributions "to further the interests of the Roosevelt administration" to civil service employees.

He said "the assistant treasurer of the Democratic National committee" had solicited such contributions.

Luce's was one of several minor amendments the house swept aside in the push toward a final vote late today. Among those rejected was a motion by Representative Fulmer (D-S. C.) to strike out a section authorizing Agriculture Secretary Wallace to use $10,000,000 to find new uses and markets for the "basic" commodities to which the bill applies.

Chairman Jones (D-Texas) pleaded during the debate for members to vote for or against the bill, but not to send it back to committee. They did not keep Representative Andersen (R-Minn.) from serving notice again that he would try to have the measure returned to the committee because "it won't accomplish the intended result."

House leaders expected not only to pass the bill by a comfortable margin but to reinstate compulsory marketing quotas on wheat, leaving the measure in substantially the form drafted by the agriculture committee.

New delays in senate debate, however, created doubts that the measure would pass.

Man Killed When Gun Goes Off Accidentally

Asks $5,100,000 in Suit Against Film Stars, Labor Heads

San Francisco—(U)—Ivan F. Cox, deposed secretary-treasurer of the local longshoremen's union, charged to a $5,100,000 damage suit today that several screen stars, labor leaders and government officials were engaged in a communistic plot to dominate the western United States.

Fredric March, film star, was accused in the suit of leading the alleged plot. Film personages named as co-defendants are actors Evancho Tene, Mary Astor, James Cagney, Lionel Stander and Jean Muir and Director Wilhelm Dieterle.

Cox asserted the defendants deprived him of the right to earn his living and blackened his character.

He asked that $5,000,000 be awarded "the general fund of the state" with $100,000 going to him for his asserted loss of livelihood.

The suit attacked Harry Bridges, Pacific coast director of the CIO, and John Schmecker, Henry Schmidt and Peter Brown of the longshoremen's union and asserted they and other defendants conspired to cause "innumerable strikes and acts of violence, murder and sabotage."

WPA Spending Is Increased Despite Economy Program

Increased Unemployment Results in Added National Expenditures

Washington—(P)—Increased unemployment forced the administration today to expand WPA spending by $23,000,000 a month, despite presidential economy plans.

The WPA employment rolls, now totaling 1,575,000 persons, will be enlarged to provide jobs for an additional 350,000 persons.

The announcement was made by Administrator Harry L. Hopkins last night shortly before he left for a physical checkup at the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn.

The proposed expansion was reported to be slightly higher than earlier WPA estimates of the winter's relief peak, but Hopkins said it could be handled within his budget.

For the year ending next June 30, WPA has been spending about $1,000,000,000 a month, and has $775,000,000 left. To increased expenditures can be carried on for a while within that appropriation.

25,000 Added

Hopkins declared, however, that there was no implication in his announcement as to the number of people who should be employed this winter. He said he was not considering at this time any request for additional funds.

"I simply am on the basis of the realities of the present situation," Hopkins added, "we think the requirements of the relief problem so far as employable people are concerned indicate we should increase our number by 350,000."

One government economist, who declined to be quoted by name, estimated 1,100,000 men who were working in factories three months ago now are out of work. Another 1,500,000, he calculated, have been reduced to part-time work.

Simultaneously with Hopkins' announcement an upswing in sentiment for more relief spending appeared in congress.

Representative Ellenbogen (D-Pa.) proposed the appropriation of another $500,000,000 for relief funds, and Senator LaFollette (D-Wis.) disclosed he was studying the possibility that additional funds might be needed.

7,000 MORE STATE JOBS

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin WPA officials unofficially estimated today that the expanded program announced in Washington will enable this state to add about 7,000 more jobs to present employment.

The WPA office had received no word of the expansion but figured that Wisconsin, which is a representative state, likely would share about one forty-eighth of the added cost of $24,000,000 a month.

The headquarters said that thousands have been certified for WPA jobs in this state but could not be put to work because of quota limitations.

Grange Opposes Control Feature

Favors Other Parts of Farm Bill; Ildre Re-elected Master

Janesville—(P)—In the closing session today of the annual Wisconsin Grange convention delegates to the agricultural fraternity went on record as opposing certain features of the farm control bill now pending in congress.

The Grange resolution opposed the control quotas and penalties imposed by the bill because "they lessen the farmers' control of their own products and interfere with the best interests of agriculture."

The over-normal granary and soil conservation features of the bill were favored by the Grangers. They also favored the program of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture in advertising dairy products, and further urged the establishment of a state police force similar to those of New Jersey and Michigan in order to decrease highway accidents and rural community lawlessness.

Opposition to the Black-Connery union and hour bill, now in the house of representatives, was manifested by the Grange on the contention it would increase costs of many products needed by farmers.

All Grange officers were re-elected. They are Herman Ildre, Neenah, master; Harold Ward, Avon, overseer; Robert Greene, Melton, lecturer; Frank Pischke, Omro, assistant steward; the Rev. H. E. Nansfield, chaplain; Warren Mineale, Oshkosh, treasurer; and Mrs. Helen Marston, Beloit, secretary.

Vocational Board Meets

Eats Annual Yule Dinner

The Christmas dinner prepared under the direction of Miss Mabel Burke, director of the home-making division of the Appleton Vocational school, caught the attention of the board members at their meeting yesterday more than did business matters.

The table was decorated and gifts of the 10-cent type distributed to board members.

Following the meal the board passed monthly bills and accepted the resignation of Miss Dora Losby as night school secretary. Miss Arline Bosser has been hired to fill the position.

Automobiles Damaged In Minor Collisions

Four cars were damaged in minor traffic accidents reported in the city yesterday and this morning.

Machines driven by Chester Riesenweber, route 3, Appleton, and Roman Salm, route 3, Appleton, collided about 8 o'clock this morning. Riesenweber was going south on N. Oneida street and Salm was driving a truck west on E. Brewster street when the accident occurred.

The other collision, which occurred at 3:20 yesterday afternoon, involved cars driven by H. R. Dutcher, 210 N. Morrison street, and Richard Van Schyndel, 204 Elm street, Kaukauna. Dutcher was traveling west on Summer street and Van Schyndel was going north on N. State street.

Guard Against Holiday Fires, McGillan Urges

Take Common Sense Precautions to Guard Against Hazards, Chief Says

Fire Chief George P. McGillan today warned residents to guard against fire hazards and accidents at Christmas time. Each year, because of carelessness that results in fires and accidents, hundreds of families turn a merry Christmas into a time for mourning and bitter regrets, he said.

Common sense precaution should be taken against common fire hazards, he advised. Lighted wax candles as Christmas tree decorations have caused many serious fires. Electric lights on Christmas trees should be turned off before leaving the house.

"Leaving small children locked in the home while the parents go out to visit is inviting catastrophes," he said.

Decorations made of paper, cotton, celluloid, cellophane and silk are easily ignited by the careless cigarette, cigar or pipe smoker. Guard against the possibility of a short circuit and a fire.

"Buy toys made of non-combustible material. Churches and schools can do much good during Christmas program week to warn against fires and other accidents."

The fire chief also warned workers against smoking in storerooms and other departments where there may be accumulations of large quantities of combustible materials, such as excelsior, paper and boxes.

Publishers, Union Sign Agreement

Arbitration Pact Intended To Prevent Strikes And Lockouts

Washington—(P)—The American Newspaper Publishers' association and the International Pressmen's union signed a new, five-year arbitration agreement today. It is designed to prevent strikes and lockouts in newspaper press rooms.

James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner and president of the A. N. P. A., said the agreement "should point the way to others as the only sensible, satisfactory and fair" method for settling employer-employee disputes.

Senator Berry (D-Tenn.), president of the pressmen's union said, in renewing the arbitration agreement, reaffirm "their allegiance to peace and to the normal, orderly processes of determining economic differences through the instrumentality of sanity and good will."

The agreement, covering 458 daily newspapers, provides that the publishers and the union must submit any differences to arbitration if negotiations and mediation fail.

"If the press of America is to remain free," Stahlman said, "it must justify its right to that freedom by a rigid adherence to its public trust through leadership, particularly in times like these."

"That leadership must not be merely through editorial expression and persuasion, but by example as well."

Ice Cream Plant, Soda Fountain Opening Today

The grand opening of the Gordon Ice Cream company's new ice cream plant and soda fountain, located just outside the city on Richland street near the corner of Highways 41 and 47, started today.

Open house at the new brick plant will continue tomorrow and Sunday. Emil and Gordon Haase are the proprietors.

Abdication Anniversary Ignored in Great Britain

London—(P)—Stolid Britain today outwardly ignored the first anniversary of one of the most intense dramas of her long history—the abdication of Edward VIII.

The government completely "forgot" and the press barely took notice of the fact that one year ago bachelor Edward signed the instrument of abdication at Fort Belvedere, relinquishing the throne to his next younger "family man" brother.

Edward spent the anniversary quietly in Paris with the woman for whom he gave up the kingship—American-born Wallis Warfield, now the duchess of Windsor.

But the day was an unusual one for the king of a year in that he had no public engagements. The life of George VI for 12 months has been crammed with them.

British officialdom has continued to ignore the existence of the duke of Windsor, frowning on publicity for his activities.

But his face is seen in London newspapers; the newspapers report his every activity.

Popularity in Doubt

The duke's popularity among the masses, little if any diminished by his abdication and raised to new heights by his romantic marriage at the beautiful Chateau de Candé, France, now is in some doubt.

This doubt is the result of labor criticism that followed his trip to Germany and the cancellation of his American trip under the guidance of Charles E. Bledsoe, the American efficiency expert.

That affair is felt to have made still more distant the duke's return to England for even a visit. He was reported to have planned a London trip for Christmas.

But what of the other actors in the drama of one year ago. Where and what are they today?

Baldwin Retired

A coal fire glows in a splendid grate in Worcestershire. Before it sits a new peer, a man who broke a king and made a king; a man content, with empire tasks behind him.

That man, Stanley Baldwin, prime minister a year ago, now is Earl Baldwin of Bewdley.

Another man, thin-lipped, stern, rallies England to a reborn faith. He, too, told Edward irrevocably: "Choose!" He is the Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, archbishop of Canterbury.

A white-haired lady, Queen Mother Mary, goes each day among her people with her memories and prayers. There is a shadow on her face that never fades.

Nobody really has forgotten a year ago and the events that burst upon the house of commons—Edward's message—Stanley Baldwin's story.

Scarcely tarnished is the vivid memory of that day and the next—the channel crossing from which there has not been and may never be a coming back.

Grant Time Extension To Settle Power Dispute

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The six months dispute between the Wisconsin Michigan Power company and the city of Menasha's municipal utility commission over the question of expansion of the municipal electric utility seemed headed for a solution this week as the public service commission granted a request of the parties for an extension of time in which to effect a compromise.

The question at issue between the parties is whether the Menasha municipal electric utility has unlimited operating rights in Menasha and can take over large power customers now served by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. Menasha has applied to the state commission for authority to install new generating equipment to take on those large customers, principally Menasha manufacturing plants.

Schedule Hearing At Green Bay on Care of Invalids

State Medical Society Investigating Field of Aid to Sick

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—A searching inquiry into the entire field of sickness care in Wisconsin by the Wisconsin State Medical society will reach the Fox River Valley this week when a special sub-committee of the organization holds hearings in Green Bay Saturday.

J. G. Crownhart, secretary of the society and director of the study, said here yesterday that the society has chosen Brown county as typical of the entire Fox River Valley group.

At the Hotel Northland, beginning Saturday noon, the special sub-committee, headed by Dr. R. G. Arverson of Frederick, chairman, will hear representatives of the schools, private and public social agencies, relief officials, public health workers, city and county officials, and any others whose work or experiences enable them to give testimony relating to health and sickness care.

Private citizens have also been invited to appear at the closed meeting, Crownhart explained. "We're talking to people on the receiving end of sickness care," he explained.

"Consistent with its policy of directing the rendition of the best that medical science can afford to the entire population," said officers of the society, "this study will be directed toward ascertaining all the facts involved and the ways, if need exists, not only to afford improved care, but also care which will have an equal opportunity to obtain."

Study Insurance

"The studies will be made by members of the society in conjunction with others in the field of public health. Hospital insurance will be among the proposals investigated, and to this end the society has secured the services of Herman L. Ekern, former commissioner of insurance of Wisconsin and now prominent insurance attorney and actuarial expert."

The study, it is expected, will not be completed until the annual convention of the society in the fall of 1938. Meetings have already been held in half a dozen northern cities, and the lake shore cities are next, Crownhart explained. Following the Green Bay meeting, the committee will hold hearings in Sheboygan Sunday. No other Fox River Valley points will be visited, he indicated.

Members of the special subcommittee are besides Dr. Arverson, Dr. H. J. Gramling, Milwaukee, secretary of the state board of medical examiners; Dr. J. Newton Sisk, Madison, prominent capital physician; Dr. R. W. Blumenthal, Milwaukee, former president of the Milwaukee County Medical society; Dr. H. H. Christofferson, Colby, member of the state board of medical examiners, and Mr. Crownhart.

State Conservation Commission May Get CCC Buildings in Park

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton has just been informed that the national park service expects to transfer title to the abandoned Civilian Conservation corps buildings at Peninsula State park to the Wisconsin State Conservation commission permanently.

Park service officials have been assured that the army, which previously planned to salvage the buildings, relinquishes all claim to them, Schneider's office said.

The procurement division will require another month to determine whether or not any other federal agency wishes to use the buildings, but park service officials assured Schneider that they believe there will be no claim upon them.

Schneider points out that the buildings will be an asset to the Wisconsin park and will be available for use of tourists, artists, and others frequenting the recreation spot.

Avoid Toys That Might Hurt Child, Physicians Warn

Care in Selection May Prevent Christmas Accidents, Society Says

Madison — "Toys that invite trouble should be avoided," declared the Wisconsin State Medical society in its special health bulletin received today on the subject of toy shopping.

"Each year there are many children who are brought to the doctor's office on Christmas morning with small toys or parts of toys lodged in their throat. This is a needless exposure to danger," the society stated.

"There are so many toys to choose from that it is very easy to find those that are too large to go into the mouth and are so constructed as to prevent small parts of the toy from breaking off, becoming unscrewed or unfastened, only coming unfastened or unfastened to find their way into the child's mouth. The excitement at Christmas time is so pronounced that many children put small pieces in their mouths and all too often swallow causing the toys to become lodged in the windpipe or causing choking, and many times these toys are inspired or 'inhaled' into the lungs.

"Great care should be exercised in choosing toys for small children so that toys are not purchased that have sharp edges or sharp projections. These edges protrude into space like porcupine quills and can very easily cause an injury to the eyes of the small child. A simple health precaution when purchasing toys is to insist upon securing a toy that has not been displayed on the counter where it has been handled and used. The mouth organ, the trumpet, and the whistle and similar toys provide an easy means of transmitting communicable diseases where they are with in reach of all who pass and are placed in the mouths of juvenile toy-counter visitors.

Wood Blocks All Right

"Enjoyable toys need not be of a complicated type. A simple toy of a safe construction can be selected which will not endanger the health of the child. As evidence of the effectiveness of simple toys is the classical example of wood blocks. Wood blocks have been the child's toy for generations and they have stood the test of time.

"Recommended toys for the various age groups should include the following:

- For the young baby: bright balls, bells, rattles, stuffed animals, small unbreakable dolls.
- For the creeping baby: balls, large blocks, floor toys, autos and wagons without sharp projections and large enough to prevent swallowing.
- For the child of one to three years: toys to pull by strings, small wagons or wheelbarrows, doll carriages, stuffed animals, small dolls, and chairs.
- For the child of four to six years: swings, gymnasium apparatus, sleds, wagons, jumping ropes, skates, tool chests, cooking utensils.
- For the child six years and older: cooking and sewing materials, gymnasium equipment, carpenter and art tools, building sets, trains, block printing sets.

Streeter, now of Santa Cruz, Calif.

The history of the Royaltown Congregational church has been one of interest, both for its local service and activities and for the national life of which it has been a part. It was organized in February, 1863 during one of the darkest periods of the Civil war; just after Lincoln's Emancipation proclamation in January of that year.

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. du Pont

If Mr. Roosevelt were seeing himself as others see him, he would be a president who very earnestly insists upon a farm bill, who very sincerely wants a wages and hours bill, who rather grimly means to balance the budget, who greatly hopes that he has a scheme to promote housing, but—for the rest, is rather bored with and unimpressed by the clamor of business men.

It could not actually be said that in principle he disagrees with what they are saying: in fact, he subscribed to their principles in his message. But he refused to let it appear that he takes the business men very seriously. He acts as if he really did not take them seriously. So, though he would not doubt be willing to let congress grant them some of the relief they wish, he behaves like a man who had no interest in helping them to get that relief, like a man, too, who would not greatly mind if the business men did not get relief.

Mr. Roosevelt may not intend to give the impression that his heart is in farm and labor legislation but not in business legislation. But that, I think, is just the impression Mr. Roosevelt creates. And that impression, at a time when business enterprise is virtually paralyzed, is an insuperable obstacle to the revival of enterprise.

Industry Needs More Than Friendly Visits

That revival will not take place just because Mr. Crook of "The New York Times" is able to imply that Mr. Joseph Kennedy and Mr. Jesse Jones are seeing the president rather more often these days than Messrs. Corcoran and Cohen. Modern industrial enterprise needs a more secure foundation than the rumor that for the time being the king's favorite courtiers are friendly. Men simply will not invest large sums of money for the future because they hear that Mr. Kennedy is still able to talk with the president.

They need something more. They need to know not that Mr. Kennedy can perhaps persuade Mr. Roosevelt, but that Mr. Roosevelt himself really believes in the things Mr. Kennedy is trying to persuade him to do. Failing that, there is not likely to be a substantial revival until congress, or perhaps the voters themselves, have wrought a far-reaching political change.

Need Sort of Revival Suggested by du Pont

As a matter of fact, the measures which the president wants cannot conceivably realize his objectives unless there is the kind of industrial revival which Mr. Lamont du Pont described in his speech to the Manufacturers' association. Mr. du Pont said, in effect, that we must look to industry not merely for the continued production of the goods it now makes, but for the application of new inventions which will create industries that do not now exist.

Is this not the only way in which the fundamental farm problem can possibly be solved? Here are Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace recognizing, and quite properly, that the American farmers can never again hope to export the whole of their great surpluses of the staples, that even with a perfect success for Mr. Hull's treaties, the American farmer must in some substantial degree export less wheat, corn, cotton, than he used to export. And here is the administration proposing to indemnify the farmer during the period of transition.

But if this is to be done, and as a matter of social justice I for one think it has to be done, the question remains: what is to become of the farmers who can no longer make a living by selling exports? Is it not evident that if the government is going to subsidize the farmers to reduce production of certain commodities, it must be vitally interested in encouraging the production of other commodities? If the south, for example, is not to export so much cotton, then the south must have more industries to employ the men who used to grow the surplus cotton. And if the south is not to run the north by competing in the same industries, then there must be new industries. And there can be no new industries if men won't invest capital.

Well Paid Industries

Those With Much Capital

The same is true of the wages and hours bill. If, as is intended, the bill drives sweated industries out of existence, then other industries have to take their place. For while it is horrible to be a sweated worker, it is even worse to be an unemployed worker. Therefore, insofar as the bill is effective, it will be that much more necessary to substitute for the sweated industries others that are not sweated.

Almost invariably it will be found that the sweated industries are those when there is little capital invested and that the well paid industries are those in which there is much capital invested.

President Ought to be Concerned About Situation

— And then the budget. How can the budget possibly be balanced if business declines and unemployment increases? Does that not mean smaller revenues and larger appropriations for relief? Moreover, desirable as it is to balance the budget, how can the government dare to stop spending unless private corporations begin spending? To deflate government expenditure without reviving industry is to invite trouble.

So in fact Mr. Roosevelt ought to be as much concerned as Mr. du Pont about the things Mr. du Pont talked about. Let us hope that he will not refuse to be concerned because the man who said them is named du Pont.

Massey Returns From Capital

County Agents Went to Washington to Discuss Relief

Waupaca—County Agent George F. Massey returned Wednesday morning from Washington where he, with other representatives from Wisconsin, had discussed relief measures for farmers in securing disease from seed potatoes with administration officials. With Mr. Massey in Washington were Emil A. Jorgenson, agent for Waushara county, and Harry Noble, agent for Portage county, and Arlie Mucks, Madison, state director of farm security administration.

The conference was held Monday with Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Senator Ryan Duffy, Congressman Gerald Boleau, Milo Perkins, federal director of farm security administration, and the federal director of surplus commodity corporation, who found it hard to visualize the disaster brought by drought and disease in this area, when every other part of the United States had good crops of potatoes. Prior to the meeting, conferences were held with each, individually, when the problem was clearly presented.

Samples of the average run of potatoes, pictures of the yellow dwarf, and figures pertaining to comparative yields of this and other years, were laid before the administration officials, who indicated that this will be declared an emergency area and that all federal agencies contacted will co-operate in working out the best possible plan to give assistance to the growers who are unable to finance the purchase of desirable seed. To get the sufficient amount of good seed.

— And then the budget. How can the budget possibly be balanced if business declines and unemployment increases? Does that not mean smaller revenues and larger appropriations for relief? Moreover, desirable as it is to balance the budget, how can the government dare to stop spending unless private corporations begin spending? To deflate it will probably be necessary to purchase the potatoes in northern Wisconsin counties and in Michigan.

Several plans for financing were presented at the conference, the most desirable being to secure potatoes on a work agreement, similar to the way the drought relief was administered; possibly by some form of cash grants, or by supplying the necessary credit and taking whatever security the farmer might have to offer.

The chief military camp in England is located at Aldershot, 34 miles from London.

Big Football Business Would Like to Duck Tax

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—I see by the New York Daily News that four state universities—Iowa, Minnesota, West Virginia and Georgia—deny the right of the federal government to collect the amusement tax on their football tickets and are suing for the refund of $119,000, claiming that because they are state institutions their football teams are agencies of their respective state government. This is a new one.

The football business is a branch of the amusement business, as pro football is the baseball business, which does pay taxes, or the movie business or the prize fight business. It has more plant than any other department of sport except golf, which pays its taxes, and everything about it, from the recruiting of replacements to the sale of tickets and the ballyhoo, is conducted in a professional manner and mainly by professionals.

The football revenue is already exempt from the income tax. As educational institutions the colleges are excused from kicking in with a legitimate share of their profits on the strength of a supreme court ruling of a few years ago which holds that no matter how much income is made it is tax-exempt if it belongs to a religious, charitable or educational institution.

In the case in point a religious institution was given immunity from the income tax on a commercial business in chocolate, and the precedent is such that anyone may organize a phony religion, take out articles of incorporation, open a church house in an office or ex-grocery store and then start an automobile factory or a department store as a side-line, the profits of which would be free of income tax. Many of the institutions which enjoy this exemption actually do operate commercial businesses in competition with private dealers who have to pay not only that income tax but other taxes not applicable to their institutional rivals. The private operators emit a faint, plaintive squawk now and then, which relieves their feelings but does no other good.

Coach Might Claim He Should Be Excused

State universities with profitable football teams are doubly exempt from the income tax on their gate receipts—first under their classification as educational institutions and again as agencies of their respective state governments.

A coach getting $15,000 a year (incidentally, few of them do get that much, but it is a nice figure for purposes of illustration) may also claim that he is an agency of the state government and beg to be excused.

You ought to read that section of the revenue act some time. It exempts labor organizations, and that goes for organizations which themselves collect an income tax on the earnings of members who were exempted from the federal tax, because the government didn't have the heart to take anything from people in brackets that low.

It goes for labor organizations which conspire among themselves to keep men out of certain lines of work by imposing prohibitive initiation fees or merely by rejecting their applications.

Some Cemetery Firms Also Leaps

Cemetery companies which claim that they are not operated for profit and whose net earnings do not go to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual also are exempt. But go around some time and pretend that you are shopping for an eight-by-four patch of God's green earth in which to wait for reveille and then wonder how come such prices if there is no profit motive. Foot frontage on the best street in town will come no higher than some of the socially exclusive sites in a place where all men are supposed to be equal.

I am inclined to believe that Joel Sayre had a better idea than he thought in his travels on football and the underworld rackets which he called "racket rax." In this daffy little aberration a lot of hoodlums bought an old brewery, started a college and went into the football business in a large way, but Sayre probably didn't know that they could have started a theater, too, a chain store system, a hotel, a factory and a fight club all under the income tax immunity of an educational institution. They couldn't have taken any dividends, of course, but salaries, yes, up to and including the limit of the income. They could have started a labor union, too, but fact had the jump on fiction by many years in that respect.

Install Heating Units In Treatment Building

Heating units are being installed in the grid building at the sewage treatment plant, according to C. O. Baetz, superintendent. Each unit costs $170 and will burn gas manufactured at the treatment plant. Need for the heating units was felt when cold weather caused the walls of the building to sweat, the water interfering with power switches.

NEW JELLY CLEARS STUFFED-UP NOSE LIKE MAGIC

Contains Medications Prescribed by Big City Specialists. Carries Way Back into Nose for More Thorough Relief.

If you've got a mean head cold, or catarrh, and your nose feels all "stuffed up," don't waste your time with make-shifts. Get real relief—quick and long-lasting—that the new Listerine Nose Jelly offers. Its basic medicines are exactly those used by big city specialists.

Users say Listerine Nose Jelly medicates more thoroughly than drops, because it reaches further back in the nose and stays there longer, allowing the medicine a chance to work longer in the affected area. It medicates more thoroughly than oily ointments because it gets better contact with inflamed areas and swollen passages that keep pus and mucus from being discharged.

Listerine Nose Jelly mixes and becomes a part of Nature's nasal secretions, which are watery in character. Therefore it spreads farther and gets wider contact, reducing the swelling, opening up the passages, relieving inflammation, and shooting fresh aromatics up in the nose to clear the head. Don't suffer! Get Listerine Nose Jelly from your druggist, now Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo.

CRIVITZ REJECTS THE CHICAGO IDEA

When one Crivitz justice of the peace sentenced another carrier of the same distinguished honor to the county jail for larceny the peculiar twist to circumstance and position made front page news of this otherwise rather trivial item far and wide across the country.

But the case has front page significance beyond the fact that one justice of the peace was called upon to carry out the mandates of the law in respect to a brother official.

The imprisoned justice was tried on the commonplace charge of lifting a supply of wood worth about $20.00 and which did not belong to him. He appears to have brushed up on all the kinks and hideouts in the law preparatory to listening to the Marinette bar submit legal propositions from "Caveat Emptor" to "Erin Go Bragh" and in doing so had fixed his eagle eye upon the refuge of great law breakers that you cannot be guilty of a crime unless you intended to commit it. Intend—that's the stuff.

But the accused failed before the jury. The simple citizens called upon to sustain the majesty of the law figured that he intended to commit an offense all right so long as he took wood that didn't belong to him even if he didn't know to whom it belonged.

The jury was right, of course, but polished high-class criminal lawyers, or lawyer criminals if you please, would say there existed a shade of distinction, something between right and wrong and yet not either, something between man and woman and yet not human, that actually resulted in a miscarriage of justice.

And as the brittle thing called justice is enforced by the people represented though their juries it must be admitted that the distinction somehow exists. But not for a woodchopper. Not for Crivitz. Not for a man who needs $20.00 worth of maple to carry him through the winter.

The distinction in the law, or rather in the rumbling verdicts of juries, is something like our surtaxes—it only starts with the higher-ups. If a man were to steal $500,000, and walk right out of the public treasury with the big bills in his pocket, flicking cigar ashes on those he didn't push off the sidewalk, the jury would not trust to its ordinary optics in examining into so startling and tremendous a case. It would import prisoners from Vienna and the finest lens from Berlin and view the acts of a big, bad, bold buccaner through every shade of light, and then likely exclaim, "This is no ordinary case, this is not a law-breaker but more likely a scientist and it would be criminal upon the part of a jury to imprison such a remarkable man."

The imprisoned justice up there at Crivitz has learned his lesson. The next time he takes something that doesn't belong to him he mustn't stop at $20.00 worth of wood, not if he wants to use the pirate's defense that "I had no guilty intent" and impress the jury to the breathless point.

Had he taken all of Crivitz it is conceivable the Post-Crescent might be printing a picture of the jury shaking hands with him after duly recording a "Not Guilty" verdict.

ADEQUACY OF MEDICAL SERVICE

Findings of the committee of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin with respect to the adequacy of medical service, as revealed by meetings being held throughout the state, may be as productive of good from the standpoint of laymen as from that of those within the profession.

The committee has an opportunity during this series of meetings to inquire into the medical care provided for all classes of people. There is little doubt that expert services are available to those whose income warrants the engagement of highly trained professional men and the provision of adequate institutional attention. For those whose misfortune has resulted in their becoming relief clients, medical service is provided along with other necessities.

The field in which the committee may through its inquiries do the most good lies somewhere between these two extremes—among the host of the state's residents whose earnings place them in the "middle class" strata.

In this class, because of the stringency of the "average family" budget, needed medical attention is frequently neglected until ailments originally easily righted have grown chronic and stubbornly resist treatment when and if it is belatedly attempted. In case of illness, the physician often is not called until all known home remedies, many times harmful, have been tried and have proved unavailing.

While it is possible that charges for medical service are no more than adequate to compensate the practitioner, it is certain that in far too many cases they are sufficiently high to be outside the reach of those who sorely need them.

If the committee can aid in making such service available to this class, at a cost within its limitations, it will not only have earned the gratitude of a large concourse of deserving people but have materially benefited the state as a whole.

CANADIANS HAVE PLENTY OF HUMOR

If the Englishman is to be known for a faulty sense of humor what shall be said of our Ontario brethren so near at hand who are largely of English blood and expose such a rollicking sense of humor that they laugh in their graves years after they depart this mundane and argumentative sphere?

There was that Ontario gentleman who not only left a fortune to the mother of the most Ontario babies and thereby stewed the province in trials and debates for 10 years but willed his race track stock to a bishop who denounced the speeding horses and left his brewery stock to a public man who had devoted his years to prohibition.

Now comes Fred Freeman up at Haliburton who didn't have enough money to make a good stir in the world but who must have his little joke even as he dies at 90 years of age.

Mr. Freeman was found to have barrels of wealth, but because he didn't have sufficient gold to fill the barrels he filled them with pennies. That was not his only joke. He left a statement to explain the many years he had lived:

"I have chewed tobacco. I have smoked a big black cigar almost every day of my life. I have drunk the best whiskey, and I have had a clear conscience. I never did a man a wrong."

Perhaps in all our fussing around with rules of longevity and how to preserve a beating heart past three score years and ten, we pay too much attention to chewing tobacco, black cigars and whiskey and altogether too little to Mr. Freeman's "clear conscience."

His explanation seems to dovetail with declarations of our scientists who say that fear and anger and worry wear out human machines more than all other peccadilloes.

The man who wrongs no one, who can lie down on his last couch and make the declaration that Fred Freeman made, even if he stretches the rubber slightly, is probably a man who never worried.

But instead of clearing the way to a life of non-worry Mr. Freeman is likely to make us worry more than ever. Who can tell what part of his statement is a joke?

CUPID COMPETITION

Every once in a while some brave individual enters the lists with Dan Cupid. This time it is a Boston University professor who has figured out a way to circumvent Mr. Cupid and simplify the business of selecting a mate.

He has worked out a chart that guides to a practical assay of a prospective mate's qualifications. Health rates so many points, as do age, education, business ability, disposition, emotional balance, sense of humor.

The chart covers all of the important qualifications.

There is something to be said for the idea, of course, but it is our guess that Mr. Cupid is not greatly disturbed.

He will continue to do business at the old stand and in the old-fashioned way and to insist that curling eyelashes are a better stock in trade than all the charts that professors work out.

And, in fairness, it must be said for Mr. Cupid that, by and large, he has succeeded in satisfying a good many people.

Opinions Of Others

ISOLATED AMONG MILLIONS
When Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies first went to Moscow to represent America in the soviet republic they had every desire to be friendly with the Russian people. But that professed friendship was balked by the universal suspicion of all foreigners and the entire diplomatic colony is isolated, its only contacts with soviet officials being on business, according to Raymond Clapper, American newspaper observer, now in Rome.

Clapper, in an article written from Moscow, speaks in highest terms of the courage and stamina displayed by the entire American group in that city, in enduring the difficulties of life as it is lived by aliens in the U. S. S. R.

All foreigners, he states, are under constant surveillance by the soviet police and secret service. Americans, when alone, never cease talking about this condition and the resultant nervousness and strain is evident upon them all.

"When a door opens," Clapper declares, "the conversation usually stops until it is seen who is coming in."

In every newspaper are warnings telling citizens they must consider all foreigners as spies. High praise is given to the American embassy. It is constantly helping Americans in trouble, writes Clapper. He tells of a husband who, in his first enthusiasm, became a soviet citizen, only to land in jail. Now this man's wife, still an American citizen, is frantically trying to help him, but doesn't even know where he is.

In another case a husband, an American citizen, was ordered to leave the country while his wife, a soviet citizen, was denied permission to go.

"Americans in Moscow," Clapper asserts, "are like a band of sturdy souls living under pioneer conditions at an outpost of civilization. Soviet food is unsatisfactory by American standards. All the Americans bring in shipments of canned goods and other commodities. Americans boil their drinking water. The strain

IT REALLY wasn't so cold, as Wisconsin goes, yesterday morning, but it somehow struck me the wrong way . . . I was extremely chilly, and it was all Timmie-the-spaniel's fault . . . T. the S. was turned out at the usual rising hour for the reason you turn your family pooch out in the morning . . . he had, as is his wont, previously deserted his bed for the greater comfort of the best living room chair, and I guess the out-of-doors was a little too much for him . . . (After all, how much good would YOUR coat do if you wore it inside the house all the time?) . . . he came in and shivered while I stirred him up a spot of breakfast . . . he shivered while eating it and after eating it . . . he came up and sat on the bathroom floor while I shaved and he shivered . . . first, it was annoying, for the bathroom was perfectly warm . . . then it began to get me down . . . with every blast of warm air from the register, T. the S. would shiver . . . finally, I began to get cold myself . . . pretty soon, I was shivering, too . . . so I covered T. the S. up with a bathmat, and believe it or not, it made us both feel a lot better . . . he stopped shivering and so did I . . .

There's beauty in that old stump.
For on its side that little lump
Is covered o'er with soft green moss.
Death, yes Death, may think he's boss,
But on comes life, its color bright.
The mushroom grows up over night.

There's beauty in that clouded sky:
Sure, it brings rain and thunder's cry;
But, could the trees give peaceful shade
Without the leaves the rain has made?
Or clover its sweet, scented bloom?
For the fresh sweet rain, we've lots o' room.

There's beauty in the golden grain
That the farmer, though much toil and strain,
Has worked to grow so straight and tall
So he may harvest in the fall.
There's beauty in the bread it makes,
Reasoning is all it takes.

Yes, reasoning is all it takes.
To see that all things nature makes
Are completely filled with ecstasies.
The birds, the flowers, the grain, the trees—
They all have beauty every one.
To tell of them, I've just begun.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

I AM CONFRONTING LIFE

I do not stand with bated breath,
Upon the road that leads to death.

Behind me are more years, I know,
Than there are left for me to go.

And yet I will not yield to fear!
I will enjoy each added year.

And know by my increasing faith,
I am confronting life, not death!

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Friday, Dec. 9, 1927

Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner and Court Reporter William Kreis, Sr. returned Friday from Oconto where the former has been presiding at a session of circuit court.

WEATHER

News item tells of enactment of an ordinance in Cincinnati, "limiting to fifteen degrees the differential between the temperature of the air conditioned building and the temperature outside." At last somebody is doing something about the weather. The term "differential" in this item should not bother you — it means difference, but sounds more scientific. The Cincinnati ordinance was enacted in the summer time and can no doubt be amended if winter comes.

In the summer time throughout the south and the east where heat and humidity commonly cause discomfort and distress, tending to injure health and lower efficiency, air-conditioning is as desirable in homes, offices, stores, churches and theatres as it is in transcontinental trains and in passenger ships plying southern waters. Such equipment built in or installed filters, circulates and humidifies too dry air or dries too damp air, and contributes to the comfort, health and efficiency of occupants or patrons. Incidentally it keeps rugs, draperies and upholstery clean—by removing excess of dust—and saves furniture from shrinking and falling apart.

In the winter time air conditioning is still more important for its well recognized prophylactic value against colds. On pardon me, but "Call it C" is the name of a booklet in the Little Lessons series, which tells you how to prevent common respiratory infections — "colds" to scoundrels who like to spread 'em — and set you back ten cents coin and a stamped envelope bearing your address. Air-conditioning in the winter-time not only has this prophylactic value but operates as a guardian or regulator of fuel consumption. It uniformly lowers the fuel bill.

In any building, house or room artificially heated by whatever method, it is both advisable and practicable to condition the air at least to the extent of evaporating a few gallons of water every day, for the purpose of preventing the evil effects of the extreme dryness of winter air when so warmed up. Rosseau (Preventive Medicine and Hygiene, Appleton, New York, 1937) says that outdoor air in winter at zero temperature and 50 per cent relative humidity, when heated up to 70 degrees will have only 3 per cent relative humidity. This is drier than the air of the driest climate known. Average relative humidity in Death Valley, California, is 23 per cent, and has been found as low as 9 per cent in the Libyan desert. Relative humidity is the ratio the amount of moisture in the air bears to the amount the air can hold at the given temperature, when saturated. For the air of dwellings, rooms, shops or any artificially heated shelters relative humidity of 50 per cent or higher is generally most comfortable, and in such atmosphere one feels fit and can work efficiently. In order to maintain a reasonable degree of humidity in the artificially heated atmosphere it is necessary to evaporate at least a gallon or two of water a day for each average size bedroom, office or living room. I have a monograph on this, if you will provide a stamped addressed envelope.

Your Birthday

"SAGITTARIUS"

If December 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a. m. to 12:45 p. m.; from 2:45 to 4:45 p. m., and from 8:45 to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:45 to 10:45 a. m.; from 4:45 to 6:45 p. m., and from 10:45 p. m. to midnight.

Be careful how freely you give information this day, especially concerning anyone else's private affairs, for it might be misused. Clacking tongues may be instrumental in spreading malicious gossip without evil intent. In social gatherings that sort of good gossip, which is merely conversing, not too freely in generalities involving criticism of personal peculiarities. Prejudice will cause many very shortsighted policies to be pursued, and will be the primary reason for making many enemies. It will be wise not to wedded to any opinion this day, because arguments may be advanced that might change your views, if you listen to them with an open mind.

You are apt to have a gratifying reminder that someone holds you very near and dear to his or her heart. Married and engaged couples, and those who are in love, should make a virtue of any necessity this day, so as to avoid an argument.

If a woman and December 11 is your birthday, you may have the happy faculty of expressing many beautiful thoughts. You are probably very resourceful, and ought to have many worthwhile accomplishments. In social gatherings you are likely to be the center of attraction. Through an unselfish friendship, you may be helped along the road to success. Variety is the one thing that can retard your progress. As a poet, author, actress, interior decorator or sales lady you ought to become quite prosperous. You will, in all likelihood, live an ideal married life, and eventually solve any financial problems you may have.

The child born on December 11 should develop a strong will power as it enters its teens. Through a charming personality it ought to win many friends.

If a man and December 11 is your natal day, you probably possess a decidedly mechanical turn of mind or are artistically inclined. As a landscape architect, painter, writer, actor, lawyer, politician, salesman, inventor, chemist iciency of the state in handing this work let them read the following rigid rules obeyed by all fishing crews, and any of which will be vouched for by any common laborer doing the work:

1. No seine can be landed without the presence of a state game warden.

2. Before any rough fish are handled.

3. If a game fish is gilled within the webbing, the strands of the seine must be cut.

4. No seine can be used which will gill and kill many fish.

5. No fish, classed as game fish, can be sold or eaten by any of the members of the crew whether on the boat or off from it.

From the above a few rules I think we can all readily see now that our commercial fishing is fairly well supervised. Any person is welcome to watch these operations anywhere within the state and are urged to do so for their own satisfaction.

So as good citizens of Wisconsin, and above all good sportsmen, let us not be too unjust in our criticism of our conservation department. Remember the department of our state is practically the leader of the United States in all phases of game and fish conservation and needs our constructive criticism and backing to maintain that leadership.

I sincerely hope that my article has not offended the previous writer and may we meet again in a friendly sportsman's chat in the People's Forum.

A Bystander

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — It occurred to us while rambling that it might ensue a lot of international growing pains if the United States should give the Philippines to Germany. Germany wants a colony or two. The United States has decided it does not—at least not the Philippines.

Germany used to have a host of little island possessions east and north of the Philippines. They were scattered over the western Pacific like leaves on a mill pond. The war came, and Japan got them in payment for her assistance to the allies. Japan aided the allies by taking a piece of China which Germany held before.

The idea of Germany owning the Philippines suggests many excellent possibilities. Japan could not kick much, Japan is allied with Germany in an anti-communist bloc and ought to be glad to have her ally close at hand for aid in emergencies. It is doubtful that Japan really would want her ally so close at hand, but under the circumstances what could she say?

COMMERCIAL FISHING RULES

Editor Post-Crescent, Wednesday evening I read an interesting article dealing with ice fishing in the Post-Crescent. The article contained thoughts with which I agreed and disagreed and I am taking this liberty to express myself on the subject. The literature published in the paper, concerning the use of two tip-ups instead of three, I did not happen to read, but I am inclined to think that this publication was probably an error due to the fact that it disagrees with the fishing laws published by the conservation department. I am sure the Post-Crescent writers will gladly check this item, as it will definitely clear up this matter for all of the readers of the paper.

I think most of our true sportsmen do not object to using only a few tip-ups from the standpoint of not catching as many fish as they do to the idea of the law eliminating the sport which we so eagerly seek while ice fishing. Anyone knows that does any winter fishing that unless one has plenty to keep him busy while standing out in that chilled air, that most of the sport is lost trying to keep warm rather than caring for the tip-ups which always tends to keep one's anticipations up, and makes up a person's love for the sport.

The article in Wednesday night's paper cited this as an advantage to the big money men, but from the facts presented in the article I failed to see one instance where the money men would be favored by such a law. I personally do not think that any man with an abundant supply of money would have any more patience to fish with two tip-ups than any of us common workmen.

The impression conveyed by the writer of the Wednesday article was that the fish were being saved from the hook and line fishermen for the financial benefit of commercial fishermen. I suggest that the writer of that article investigate a little more thoroughly the operations of the commercial fishermen in our state waters, if he does he will have a little different outlook on that situation. It would probably interest him to know that there are very few commercial fishermen left within our inland lakes, and that if one wishes to commercially fish as an occupation he must pay a state game warden four dollars a day and his room and board to supervise all of his seining. It is the chief purpose of this warden to care for and liberate all game fish caught within the seine, while seining for rough fish. Due to this fact most commercial fishermen are out of the business, or else are working for the state on their fishing crews. The state through its department of fisheries at the present time either does all its own commercial fishing or else closely supervises private fishermen. If any person doubts the efficiency of the state in handing this work let them read the following rigid rules obeyed by all fishing crews, and any of which will be vouched for by any common laborer doing the work:

1. No seine can be landed without the presence of a state game warden.

2. Before any rough fish are handled.

3. If a game fish is gilled within the webbing, the strands of the seine must be cut.

4. No seine can be used which will gill and kill many fish.

5. No fish, classed as game fish, can be sold or eaten by any of the members of the crew whether on the boat or off from it.

From the above a few rules I think we can all readily see now that our commercial fishing is fairly well supervised. Any person is welcome to watch these operations anywhere within the state and are urged to do so for their own satisfaction.

Business Laying Base for Upward Push, Babson Says

Advices Purchase of Raw Materials Because Of Low Prices

Babson Park, Mass.—Business is now laying the base for a new upward push in 1938. The readjustments in stock and commodity prices, in inventories, and in industrial production are going on with tremendous rapidity. A quick, sharp recession is much more desirable than a long dragged-out period of correction. The steepness of the present break convinces me that the upturn will come sooner than most people believe, assuming that Congress cooperates.

Every new phase of the business cycle brings its opportunities. Hundreds of fortunes were built, for instance, by those who had the courage and vision to buy stocks and bonds in 1932 and 1933. Today, I believe that we have another golden opportunity. It is in the commodity markets. But the majority of businessmen are now too frightened to move. Their vision is clouded; their courage has vanished. Of course, we will continue to have ups-and-downs in business and prices over the next few years. This is not another 1929-32 debacle. I believe that sometime before business does go through another major depression we are going to have the biggest boom in all our history!

Several weeks ago I gave readers some of the basic causes of this current slump. Many of them are real, but some are psychological. Just as the commodity price pendulum swung too far last spring, so I now feel that it is swinging too far in the opposite direction today. Buying in the "primary" market is far under normal. Raw materials, which were snapped up last spring at 50 to 100 per cent. higher prices, are not moving. Businessmen and investors want cash now more than they want goods or securities. Fear and hope are far stronger temporary factors in controlling prices than facts and figures.

Raw Materials Down

Few readers have occasion to follow many raw commodities. Therefore, they may not realize what a huge change has taken place in "spot" prices in the last few weeks. Hence, I am giving below a comparison of current quotations with 1937 highs:

Commodity	1937 (Approx. Per Price)	Current	Cent
Coffee (per lb.)	$1.10	$0.68	40
Cocoa Beans (per lb.)	.13	.05	61
Copper (per lb.)	.17	.10	41
Cotton (per lb.)	.15	.08	46
Hides (per lb.)	.18	.15	35
Rubber (per lb.)	.27	.14	48
Wheat (per bus.)	1.41	.95	33
Wool (per lb.)	1.00	.50	50

Note that in some cases the buyer can get twice as much raw material today for the same amount of money as he could earlier in the year.

I have always been opposed to commodity speculation. I feel that commodities should only be bought for legitimate business purposes. No one should try to play the other fellow's game. Yet, business organizations are able to perform a real service today by buying shrewdly. If concerns can utilize their idle cash to pick-up good raw material bargains, it is sound management to do so. They can produce their goods at a low cost. Hence, their customers, their salesmen, their employees, and their investors, all benefit. I think that such an opportunity for business concerns to buy raw materials advantageously exists now.

Readers will notice that I am stressing raw material bargains. Finished and semi-finished goods prices are still high. Few manufacturers have begun to pass along lower material costs to their customers. Some semi-finished products, such as gray goods, worsted yarn, brass, flour, and glass have backed off. However, others, such as tinplate, finished steel, kraft paper, nails, and the like are still near their peaks. Most finished products have not yet been shaded—except as retail merchants themselves have cut price-tags to move their stocks. A few finished goods have even been marked-up this fall—notably farm equipment, tires, and automobiles.

"Freezing" Bad Business

With buying power declining, this tendency to "freeze" finished goods prices bothers me. I fail to see how you can interest your customers in a period such as this by marking-up the price of your product. Those manufacturers who have done so will probably regret their decision. In making this statement, I realize that certain fixed costs, such as taxes and union wage rates, are behind these higher or unchanged prices. The quickest way to yank business out of a tail-spin is to do just what raw material producers, such as the copper people, have done. They have cut their prices down to level where even panicky customers can hardly afford not to buy.

I am confident that as time goes on lower raw-material costs will bring about a substantial mark-down in retail prices as well. Already clothing has begun to drop. Merchants are naturally anxious to keep their stock turning over. They have started the ball rolling by putting on "sales." Food prices are always sensitive to quotations in the wholesale marts. Hence, there has been a gratifying drop, from the householders' standpoint, in meats and fruits. Furniture prices, on the other hand, are being generally pegged until the Christmas rush is over.

After the turn of the year, I expect such retail lines as home-furnishings, clothing, luggage, and the like to offer some real opportunities. Automobiles may be cheaper in the spring. Year-old cars are particularly good bargains right now. Home-builders should wait a month or two until government pressure forces some cuts in costs. House-lots, however, will probably not be cheaper than they are at present. The important point is that today real bargains exist in most raw materials; many semi-finished goods are dropping, while by late winter bargains should be seen in the retail field.

1,100 Students Have Enrolled in Workers' School

Classes are Held Weekly in 26 Wisconsin Communities

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison — Instruction in special classes for the state's industrial workers has become popular and first term enrolments indicate a successful inauguration of the program, the University of Wisconsin School for Workers in industry reported today.

E. E. Schwartztrauber, director of the new school, reported that to date 1,100 students have enrolled only two months after classes were begun in the principal industrial cities in Wisconsin, and that about one third of the total enrollment is represented by women. At present the school is conducting 63 classes weekly in 26 communities, including Green Bay and Appleton. The classes are conducted by five full time teachers, eight employed by the WPA, and 12 part-time instructors from local communities in which instruction is given.

Most popular courses given are parliamentary law and public speaking, Schwartztrauber noted. Others offered are consumers' problems, collective bargaining procedure, labor problems, labor history, labor economics, consumers' cooperation, and social psychology.

Age and educational background of the students in the extension classes vary widely, Schwartztrauber said. The average class ranks between the eighth grade and second year high school. The new school classes are open to any employee, whether affiliated with unions or not, and are an outgrowth of the old School for Workers in industry which formerly held an annual session on the university campus during the summer.

Other valley communities in which classes are now held are Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Manitowoc, and Two Rivers.

Kepler One of Leaders for Conference

DR. THOMAS S. KEPLER, professor of Bible and religion at Lawrence college, will serve as one of the commission leaders at the national Methodist student conference which meets Dec. 28 to 31 at St. Louis, Mo., at the Centenary Methodist church. Others from Appleton who will attend are Clark Nixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Nixon, 814 N. Superior street, and Miss Beth Arveson, Milwaukee, both students at Lawrence college, who will be student delegates of Fireside Fellowship group. Dr. Gilbert S. Cox, Ft. Collins, Colo., until recently of Appleton, will be a commission leader also. As one of the seven notable commission leaders, Dr. Kepler will head the commission on "Jesus, the Revelation of God, and a Way of Life," at this union conference of 1,000 Methodist college and university students and adult counselors from the three main Methodisms in the United States. The national Methodist student conference, called by a student committee under the auspices of the boards of education of the three Methodisms, will be a historic event in the student life of the church. Marking a new era in religious thinking among students, the conference will devote itself to basic conceptions of religion and the relations of these to the organization and conduct of individual and group life. It marks a return to the fundamental principles of religion. Of special significance is the fact that the conference leads the way to a united American Methodism, involving as it does cooperation of the Methodist Episcopal church, the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and the Methodist Protestant church. The entire conference will be divided into seven commissions. Besides Dr. Kepler, other commission leaders include: Dr. N. C. McPherson of the board of Christian education of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; Dr. L. F. Sensabaugh, director of religious activities, Southern Methodist university, Dallas, Texas; the Rev. Dr. Harold Case of Topeka, Kan.; and the Rev. T. T. Brumbaugh, director of the Wesley Foundation of Japan. The conference will have charge of the worship services for the conference, while President Nelson P. Horn of Baker university, Baldwin, Kan., is to lead the forum discussions.

'Little Men' to Show Life Of Children 60 Years Ago

IN this day of streamlined trains, radio, telephones, automobiles and movies, it should be a real experience for modern children to get a glimpse of life as it was lived over 60 years ago, when Louisa May Alcott wrote "Little Men," which the Clare Tree Major company of New York will bring to Lawrence Memorial chapel next Tuesday afternoon. This world of long ago is almost inconceivable to the modern child mind, and yet well within the memory of even a moderately aged adult who can recall the days of few bath tubs, little electricity, going to bed by candle-light and riding to church side saddle. Although there were few amusements as we think of them today, the youngsters had good times, as the children will probably agree after seeing the play, "Little Men." There weren't any movies to go to, so they staved at home and got acquainted with each other. They played the piano, violin and harp, and one could develop a good orchestra if the family happened to be large enough. They sewed, big full skirts with yards and yards of banding and laces, and they made the lace. Now and then they took momentous rides by stage coach. Appleton children will become acquainted with the simple pleasures of long ago when they attend the matinee next Tuesday afternoon, and may get some ideas on how to entertain themselves at home without having someone else do all the work of entertaining. They will, for a brief interval at least, take time out to dream and use their imaginations, for in the theater the facts are there but they are all bound about with fantasy. And so for a few short hours, the world of machinery and gadgets releases its hold and the audience may soar away on wings of imagination. This is the second production of the Clare Tree Major company in Appleton this season. This time the performance will begin at 2 o'clock instead of 3:30 and the youngsters will be dismissed from school at 1:30 in order to give them ample time to get to the chapel and be seated comfortably before the curtain goes up. The plays are being given here under the auspices of Edison School Parent-Teacher's association.

Auxiliary to Hold Party For Children

A CHRISTMAS party for children of members of auxiliary to Harvey Pierre post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, Dec. 21, it was decided at the meeting of the auxiliary Thursday night at Eagle hall. Others on the committee will include Mrs. Robert Olson, chairman, Mrs. Pat Ferguson, Mrs. Cecilia Blong, Mrs. Max Bueke, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Rex Spencer. The group also decided to send gifts to local post members in hospitals at Christmas time and to prepare Christmas baskets for needy members of the local post and auxiliary. The auxiliary voted a donation to Wisconsin Veterans Home in Waupaca for non-pensioned mothers there. The following chairmen of standing committees were appointed: Mrs. James Brown, hospital; Mrs. John R. E. Miller and Mrs. Robert Olson, essay contest; Mrs. Irwin Tornow, national home fund; Mrs. Arthur Slater, Americanization. Mrs. Brown, member of the department scrapbook committee, gave the auxiliary a scrapbook to be used during the year. The social committee for January was named as follows: Mrs. Leon Bartlein, Mrs. Olaf Bernslein, Mrs. John Blair and Mrs. Earl Boulden. A pot-luck supper preceded the meeting last night. Christmas decorations being used. Gifts were exchanged among the members.

Younger Set Is Planning Yule Parties

INVITATIONS to three large holiday parties have gone out to the young social set of the Fox River valley. On Tuesday, Dec. 21, at their home on E. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bergstrom will entertain more than 200 guests at a Christmas party for their daughters, Alice Perry and Marjorie. Both girls are students at Miss Madiera's school, Washington, D. C. and will arrive home Dec. 18 for the holidays. On Christmas night a group of about 20 Oshkosh boys will entertain at the Century club, Oshkosh, and invitations to the affair have been received by a large number of the young socialites of Appleton, Menasha and Neenah. Mrs. Chester Shepard, Menasha, and Mrs. Kimberly Stuart, Neenah, will give a Christmas dance for their daughters, Miss Mary Hoyt Cowles and Miss Mary Stuart, on Dec. 27 at the Shepard home on Nicolet boulevard, Menasha. About 60 young people will be present. Mrs. Shepard and Mrs. Stuart entertained at a similar party for the two girls last year. In a number of other homes, plans for holiday parties are waiting for the return of sons and daughters from school. CEREAL SWEETENER To encourage the children to eat cereal, cover the cereal with a sauce made of cooked figs and prunes. ## Club Told About Yule Traditions

THE origin of the custom of bringing under the mistletoe, of the names, Kris Kringle, and Santa Claus and of the giving of gifts at the Yuletide season were explained by the Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church, at the December meeting of Federated Appleton Woman's club Thursday afternoon at the club house. Speaking on "Christmas Legends," the Rev. Mr. Bell pointed out that the name, Santa Claus, comes from St. Nicholas who was a man noted for his generosity to poor people, Carolus, the various countries were discussed also.

Appleton Woman's club chorus under the direction of Miss Helen Mueller sang two groups of Christmas selections. They included "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen," "Sing We Noel," "Here a Torch, Jeanette Isabella," "Silent Night" and "O Come All Ye Faithful" for the first group, and "Shepherd's Christmas Song" arranged by Clarence Dickenson with flute obligato by Miss Anna Sieg for the second. Miss Sieg gave a flute solo, "Melodie" by Tournoux. The chorus has 32 members.

Ninety-five persons were present at the meeting. Christmas tea followed the program. Mrs. O. R. Busch and Mrs. George Buth pouring. # Trial Examiners Bring Criticism To Labor Board

Actions Cause Misunderstanding Regarding Freedom of Press

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Judging by the comments of the press generally and by members of congress, there seems to be considerable misunderstanding as to what the National Labor Relations board thinks about freedom of the press, the accusation being that the board is seeking a means of punishing those who write about its work in critical vein.

Two instances are being cited in an attempt to prove that the board has either disregarded or intends to disregard the immunity which the press has always felt that it had to withhold sources of its information and to refuse to give such testimony in courts or before governmental tribunals.

One case involves the editor of a newspaper in St. Mary's, Pa., who was sharply cross-examined by an attorney representing the labor board, and the other the effort of a regional trial examiner to require by subpoena the presence of an editor of a magazine.

What unfortunately is not generally known, but happens nevertheless to be true, is that the National

Lawrence

By Libby

"Only 15 more days to Christmas, gentlemen, and then I must take it home to Junior."

al Labor Relations board itself—examination of the editor nor the agency of three members who act in a quasi-judicial capacity in construing the Wagner act—did not have anything to do with either case, neither ordering the cross-and other governmental commissions have them, too—are merely agents of the board, charged with the duty of taking testimony and making a report on it to the board.

It is reliably reported that the first information which the members of the National Labor Relations board had of the transcript of the testimony of the editor of the St. Mary's, Pa., paper was when they read a record of it in the newspapers this week. Members of the board are said to feel that the lawyer who cross-examined the editor went far beyond the proprieties and far beyond the necessities of evidence gathering.

As for the subpoena of the writer of an article in a trade magazine last week, here, too, the national labor board did not know of the event till the newspapers reported it. This is because it is the custom of governmental commissions to permit their regional representatives to take with them to various parts of the United States some blank subpoena, and, when the attorneys designated to try cases want a witness summoned, they merely fill out the blanks and thus save the delays incident to writing back to Washington and waiting for approval of every subpoena before its issuance.

Blank Subpoenas. Senatorial committees have for a long time been in the habit of issuing blank subpoenas to their agents to be filled out as the agents discover in the course of investigation the names of persons from whom evidence might be obtained.

The labor board has many attorneys operating in the field. There are literally thousands of pages of testimony being taken nearly every day, and it would be almost a physical impossibility for the board here to be acquainted with what is being done in the trials before examiners. Usually the board learns what has happened when the examiners forward to Washington a report with their recommendations and attach thereto a complete stenographic record of testimony.

The important fact from the point of view of the press is to know that the National Labor Relations board realizes full well what the freedom of the press means and has no intention of interfering with it. It can, of course, and will be argued that the board is responsible for everything said or done by its attorneys in the field and by its trial examiners. In a technical sense this is true. But it remains also that there is not the slightest ground for stating that the board knew in advance or in any way motivated the attack which was made by attorneys in the field on the rights of the press.

In the case of the individual subpoenaed to tell about the circulation of his article among employees of a plant where a labor dispute was going on, the issue to be determined is whether the circulation was a natural process done wholly by the magazine or whether it was an artificial affair in which the reports of the article were distributed among the employees at the direction of the employer.

There will, no doubt, be all sorts of controversies as to the wisdom of what the attorneys and trial examiners do in the field, and criticism of their acts will probably be found justified in some cases and unjustified in others. What really is wrong today is that the labor board is such a new agency and so obviously trying to develop by experience what its practice should be for trying the many cases brought before it that the board ought to send out a set of cautionary rules governing the work of its attorneys and trial examiners. Then the proceedings before the trial examiners would become more like the courts of law, though, here, too, the parallel cannot be carried too far because examiners' hearings are informal affairs in which the customary rules of evidence are not binding. This is because the purpose of the examiner sometimes is merely to find out whether an employer really has or has not interfered with the rights of his employees to self-organization. To get at the facts, it is often necessary to go seemingly far afield, but, so far as the press is concerned, it can object to such excursions, and this should help ultimately to correct mistakes and abuses.

Winter Continues To Rule Over Most Of United States

Southern States Also in Grip of Cold Wave; At Least 25 Dead

By the Associated Press .... From the gale-battered Pacific coast to Florida's chilly citrus belt, the nation today suffered a wintry assault that has cost at least 25 lives in the last few days.

While skies generally were clear east of the Rockies (Buffalo, N. Y. was a notable exception) intense cold and drifted snow caused widespread discomfort, hindered traffic and brought a threat of floods to western Pennsylvania rivers choked with ice.

Asheville, N. C., and Louisville, Ky., shared the south's lowest readings with 14 each.

In the vicinity of Buffalo, snow-plows bucked huge drifts to rescue marooned motorists and street traffic was all but halted.

In Brighton, Buffalo suburb, 40 families were trapped in their homes as the town officials borrowed high powered snowplows to fight through 10 foot drifts and bring the groups food supplies.

Its traffic arteries virtually paralyzed by a three-day blizzard, the populous Buffalo suburban village of Menmore appealed to Governor Lehman for an immediate assignment of national guard troops "for use in case of emergency."

Fair weather tonight and tomorrow for Appleton and vicinity is the forecast issued by the weather-man today.

Last night's temperatures were a trifle milder than Wednesday night's. The lowest mark recorded over the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning was at 7 o'clock today when the thermometer stood at six degrees above. The maximum temperature during the period was 13. At 1 o'clock this afternoon the instrument atop the Post-Crescent building registered 13 degrees.

Miami, Fla., far from the blustering winds and snow flurries, had 74 degrees yesterday. Williston, N. D., was the nation's coldest spot, reporting 20 below.

CIO Chieftains Defy Threatened Boycott

Portland, Ore. (AP)—CIO leaders, triumphant in a bargaining election called by Governor Charles Martin to break a four-months' tieup of Portland's lumber industry, voiced defiance today to a threat of A. F. of L. union chiefs to continue boycotting CIO-produced lumber.

The boycott "couldn't stop enough lumber to build a smokehouse," said George Brown, a CIO official.

Under armed guard, employees of the Inman-Poulson lumber mill voted 376 to 183 yesterday to designate the CIO its bargaining agency. Plant officials said they would reopen Monday with a crew of 300 men.

Governor Martin called the election after the national labor relations board refused to do so. The board previously had designated the CIO as the employees' representative.

Scouts to Build Interest In Home Lighting Contest; 12 Prizes Valued at $100

Boy Scouts of the city have been enlisted to help build interest in the Post-Crescent Christmas Home Lighting Contest and make Appleton famed for the beauty of its homes during the Yuletide season.

A letter announcing the contest will be sent out from the office of Walter Dixon, Appleton scout executive, to scoutmasters of the 11 Appleton troops.

By aiding their parents in working out display schemes and in building the actual displays, the youths will not only help make the city more beautiful but have a lot of fun doing it.

The 12 prizes, valued at $100, which will be awarded in the four divisions have been selected by the Home Lighting Editor and will be on display on College avenue next week. They are useful, attractive prizes, modern in every detail, as you will see when they are shown. Following is the letter which was sent to the Appleton scout executive enlisting the aid of the Boy Scouts and which will be relayed to the various city troops:

"Dear Mr. Dixon: 'Hoping to make Appleton outstanding for its Christmas spirit and decorations, the Post-Crescent is sponsoring a Home Lighting Contest in the city and will give 12 prizes valued at $100. Details of this contest have been explained at length in news stories which have appeared in the paper. Starting Monday, Dec. 13, story on the contest will appear in each day's edition. 'Knowing that you and your Boy Scouts are interested in community enterprises, we have decided to ask your help in building interest in this contest. We are sure that scouts, with their active minds and bodies, would enjoy helping their parents plan and construct outdoor Christmas displays.

'We would greatly appreciate your notifying Appleton scoutmasters of this contest and suggest that they announce it to Boy Scouts at troop meetings.

Gratefully,
Home Lighting Editor
Appleton Post-Crescent"

In ensuing papers, the Post-Crescent will not only give written suggestions for outdoor displays, but also run them in full detail, but will also run charts and pictures to make it easier for residents to follow the directions. No citizens are obligated to take our ideas and whether they do or not will make no difference to the judges. The ideas will be offered in the hope that they will be helpful.

Originality is one of the keystones of any artistic display and the person who can construct an outdoor lighting scheme of unique nature will score high in the judges' favor. On this page you'll find an entry blank. All you need to do is fill it out, mail it to the Home Lighting Editor, Appleton Post-Crescent, and you're entered in the contest. Entries are coming in rapidly now, and the deadline is midnight, Dec. 20, and lights on the outdoor displays must be on each evening of the Christmas week.

Prepare Plan Showing Use of Property Taxes

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Officers of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities and the Wisconsin County Boards association, powerful lobbying organizations of city officials and county board members, today worked on plans which will show local property tax payers to what uses their tax contributions are being put.

A. J. Thelen, secretary of the Wisconsin County Boards association, and Frederick N. MacMillin of the Municipalities league are working on a plan which will supplement the 1937 statute which requires local treasurers to issue tax receipts showing in separate columns the amounts for county, city and state levies.

Both the league and the county boards organization have long argued that while it may seem that the state levies no property tax, it simultaneously saddles numerous special charges on counties which amount to such a property levy.

For instance, as a condition for state common school aids, counties are required to levy a tax to provide an equal share for the support of county schools, which is reflected in the county tax. The same system is applied in social security aids, mother's pensions, old age pensions, aid to dependent children, and aid to the needy blind, in each of which the state law requires counties to contribute a share.

Besides these requirements, counties each year are required to raise large sums of money in their budgets for through taxes levied by the state, and for special charges. Brown county in 1936, for example, according to a tax commission tabulation just issued, will raise $67,600.15 for this purpose, while Outagamie county will pay $82,375.14.

Some of the special charges and taxes against Outagamie county are divided as follows: forestry tax, $19,821; chronic insane, $4,910; Winnebago state hospital, $4,922; Mendota state hospital, $569; Northern Wisconsin Colony and Training school $5,000; Industrial school for boys, $406; State sanatorium, $550; County Tuberculosis sanatorium (interchanged patients), $1,000; southern Wisconsin Colon and Training school, $109; Industrial school for girls, $325; central state hospital, $289; Lake Tomahawk state camp, $121; Wisconsin General hospital, $8,276; Wisconsin Orthopedic hospital, $1,360;

State public school, $216; Industrial home for women, $334. The total of the charges for penal and charitable purposes which the state will collect from Outagamie county is $28,199.

Under a plan now being worked out by the two organizations of public officials, the local taxpayer will not only get a receipt showing separate column for state, local and county taxes as required by the new law, but will also be shown how much of his county tax contribution is caused by special state requirements of counties.

Appleton Residents Told to Clear Walks Or Pay City Workmen

Residents were warned today by City Engineer Lloyd M. Schindler that sidewalks must be cleared of snow by 9 o'clock in the morning following a snow storm at night.

If walks are not shoveled by that time, street department workmen will be ordered to shovel them and the cost will be charged to property owners. When city workmen clear the walks, the charge will be one cent per foot, in accordance with city ordinance, the engineer said.

Property owners or renters also must sprinkle icy sidewalks with ashes or sand when the walks are slippery. Under the city ordinance, a property owner can be fined $1 and costs for each day he fails to spread ashes or sand after he is warned to do so.

Parish Young People Plan to Present Play

Darby—A number of young people of Holy Angels parish are busy rehearsing for the three act comedy, "Mrs. Tubbs of Shantytown," which will be presented at the Darby hall Sunday afternoon and evening, Dec. 19.

The local branch of Catholic Knights of Wisconsin will have their annual banquet at their hall at 7 o'clock Sunday evening. All members are requested to attend.

Eunice Gras-L, who was a patient at St. Elizabeth Hospital following an appendectomy, returned to her home the past week.

Venerable Mother Superior Sister Gabriel of St. Francis convent at Green Bay, spent several days with the sisters of Holy Angels school this week.

The Christian Mothers of Holy Angels congregation held their annual meeting and breakfast at the school, after attending communion in a body at the 8 o'clock mass on Wednesday, the feast of the Immaculate Conception. A motion was made and carried that all 1936-37 officers be retained for another year. Mrs. Hugo Wittmann and Mrs. Oscar Hartzheim were appointed on the sick committee.

CLERGY LIKES RUGBY

Gloucester, Eng.—Three clergymen are playing for the Gloucester rugby club. They are the Rev. C. Tanner and the Rev. E. L. Phillips, three-quarters, and the Rev. H. M. Hughes, a forward.

CALIFORNIA, HERE WE COME.

These young men will go west to uphold a Crimson Tide record of no defeats and no ties against California's undefeated Golden Bears on New Year's Day. At the left is Joe Kilgore, brilliant halfback and sparkplug of the Alabamians; center is Coach Frank Thomas; and right is Captain Leroy Monsky, one of the nation's outstanding guards. In four previous trips to the Rose Bowl, Bama has won three games and tied one.

Connie Mack Probably Won't Handle Athletics

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — Unless his health improves a lot, Connie Mack, 74 and ill, will have no active part in the management of the Athletics next season.

He may not even accompany the team south.

Buddy Baer says you just ought to see Maxie toting his new baby around.

When the Oklahoma City University football team held its annual banquet, the players presented Coach Toby Greene with a Mack traveling bag.

Of course, that had nothing to do with the fact that the team lost nine of its ten games this year.

Nobody is bent on admitting it, but there's every reason to believe Jimmy Fox is definitely on the market.

"Recession" or not, the New York hockey Rangers pulled in 70,732 customers for their first five home games this year, against 48,732 for the first five last season.

... Dick Barker has coached wrestling at Cornell college in Iowa for 16 years, but in all that time not one of his pupils (in the 175-pound class) has been able to toss the old master, although he defends his title against them annually.

Marquette had a bad football season but no wolveres were yelling for Paddy Driscoll's scalp.

Too bad about Harry Kipke, but it wasn't unexpected.

Coast scribbles say California's 1937 thunder team could have compiled one of the highest scoring records in history if it hadn't been against Coach Stubb Allison's policy to humiliate beaten teams.

They say George Abrams, Washington middleweight, who has won 11 consecutive fights, although less than a year out of the amateurs, is going places.

... Pal Moran, the old lightweight, who used to bet as high as $500 on a single race at the fair grounds in New Orleans, now works as a runner at $5 per day at the same track.

Benny Lynch, the flyweight champ, is OK again after getting his head smashed in an auto accident in England recently.

Ray Trail, Syracuse freshman harrier star, is a full-blooded Mohawk Indian.

Vernon Kennedy, White Sox pitcher, lived in a trailer during the Sox home stays last summer.

Football Wolves Won't Have Much Food This Winter

New York — (U)—The football wolves, who start howling about this time every year for juicy pieces of coaches' scalps, don't figure to do much eating this winter.

They're enjoying a full meal, at the moment, in Harry Kipke, Michigan's "ex," but beside from him, and possibly a few others, such as Harry Mehre, who already has resigned at Georgia, the "choice morsels" probably will be few and far between.

The general impression around and about seems to be that if the wolves want to howl—well, let 'em. Take Clark Shaughnessy at Chicago for instance. It's been many a day since the Maroon made any kind of a showing against big time gridiron rivals. But no one at Chicago is making any passes at Clark. He appears as safe as the bank of England.

Three of the major conferences, the Southwest, Big Six and Rocky Mountain, so far are standing pat on what they have. And in the Big Ten, aside from Kipke, the pilots have no immediate cause for worry.

There are few, if any rumors, afloat. Michigan may follow up by swinging the ax at Kipke's staff of assistants, notably line coach Hank Anderson, provided the next mentor, whoever he may be, says so. General conjecture as to Kipke's successor mentions Gus Dorais, Detroit's highly successful pilot. Irwin Uteritz, former Michigan quarterback, now assisting at California, and (as a dark horse) Benny Friedman, Michigan's former passing great, who has just wound up a satisfactory season at City College of New York.

Baugh Will Get Test in Bears-Redskin Contest

CHICAGO — How much better a football player is Sammy Baugh now than when he finished his collegiate career?

That is one question which will be uppermost in the minds of thousands of fans at Wrigley field Sunday when the Washington Redskins, eastern titholders, and the Chicago Bears, western section rulers, tangle for the 1937 National Professional Football league championship.

Baugh, at Texas Christian University, was generally recognized as one of the greatest forward passers ever developed in college circles. But as a freshman sensation of the pro league, and the aerial spearhead of the Redskins this season it begins to appear that Baugh as a collegian may have been just a novice at the game when compared to Baugh of the play-for-pay circuit.

There isn't much question that Slingshot Sammy is better now than when, as a member of the collegiate all-stars, his pass helped whip the Green Bay Packers Sept. 1. It's a question of how much better—and Coach Ray Flaherty of the Redskins had this to say: "We will show Chicago a much finer football player than the Baugh who played with the collegians. He's learned how to run with the ball, which makes his passing ability even more dangerous, and he also can block and tackle."

To stand out in Sunday's title battle, Baugh will have to outshine some of the greatest players the pro league ever has known. He'll team with the clever Cliff Battles, Riley Smith and Ernie Pincart in a backfield. Flaherty confidently says is the best in the circuit. Among the backs Baugh will oppose will be such luminaries as Bronko Nagurski, Jack Manders, Beattie Feathers, Ray Nolting and Bernie Masterson.

Roosevelt Faculty Bows to Youngsters

Faculty members at Roosevelt Junior High school will probably take up checkers after dropping a basketball tilt to a group of ninth grade youngsters, 18-15, at the school yesterday afternoon. The men led, 10-8, at halftime but will lead in the second half to score only five points while the ninth graders caged 10 points.

Kleifoth led the ninth grade squad with four baskets and four free throws for 12 points while Notebaert hit the hoop for three baskets and three gift shots for nine points. The faculty committed 16 personal fouls while the winners fouled eight times.

In a preliminary home room tilt, 8-7, defeated 8-7, 9-2, Jahneke scored two field goals and a free throw while Stocker and Buesing each caged one basket for the winners. Goldberg, Frank, White are Named On All-America '11

New York — Selections for Collier's forty-eighth annual All-America football team, which is a perpetuation of the All-America founded by Walter Camp, were announced today. The players are:

Ends: Andrew Bershak, North Carolina; Jerome Holland, Cornell; Teddes: Edmund Franco, Fordham; V. Markov, Washington.

Guards: Leroy Monsky, Alabama; Joseph Routt, Texas A. and M.; Center: Carl C. Hinkle, Jr., Vanderbilt.

Quarterback: Clinton E. Frank, Yale.

Halfbacks: Marshall Goldberg, Pittsburgh; Byron White, Colorado; Fullback: Samuel C. Holman, Univ. of California.

In awarding the Walter Camp gold football to these players, the judges revealed that Frank, Chapman and White were the only unanimous choices of the Collier's board and the 50-odd coaches who were consulted. Frank, incidentally, was the only member of the 1936 All-America team to be named again this year. In commenting on the 400 teams and 16,000 players involved in the season's play, the judges said:

"This campaign was not a medley of upsets. It was rather one of the greatest levelers that football has yet known. It proved again that material and coaching were spread evenly over the country. The super-coach and the super-team were heading toward extinction.

"In lining up the 1937 All-America the play of each man, including opposing strength, was thoroughly checked from the first game to the last. There was no prejudice, no partisanship, no angle of race, creed or color. Those who had shown three good years were given some advantage over others, practically as good, who had turned in only one or two years of high-class work."

Survey Shows Football Winds Blew in Every Direction in 1937

BY BILL BONI

NEW YORK—(AP)—Just as 1936 was the season of one major trend in college football, so 1937 was the season of many trends. The annual Associated Press survey, which has as its object the discovery of which way the football winds are blowing, shows they were blowing every which way. There is so little evidence of a nation-wide keynote, such as last year's increased use of the forward pass, that it seems advisable to list the various trends and the sections in which they were most pronounced.

1.—Less forward passing; observed at Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech, West Virginia, Cornell, Syracuse, Princeton and Rutgers in the east; notably Ohio State in the mid-west; Alabama, Louisiana State, Tulane, Auburn, Florida and Sewanee in the south; California, Washington, Washington State, Southern California and Oregon State in the far west.

2.—More forward passing; observed at Villanova, Georgetown, George Washington and Maryland colleges in the east; Marquette, Iowa, the Big Six, Detroit, St. Louis and smaller colleges in Nebraska and Indiana, in the mid-west; Duke, Kentucky and the Virginia colleges in the south; Arkansas in the southwest; the entire Rocky Mountain conference.

3.—Less lateral passing; observed virtually everywhere.

4.—Stronger defenses, with emphasis on the epidemic-like spread of the five-man line and other freak, or, in the words of Wesley Fry of Kansas State, "crazy" defenses; observed in the east, the Big Six, the Pacific northwest, the over the Metropolitan Cafe. F. Gehring's 508 series was highest in the cafe's scoring.

The classes will meet tonight at 8:15 and also convene on Tuesday nights. Don Weidman is instructing the wrestling and Dick Holzer the boxing. Several of the boxing students are taking frequent workouts at the "Y" in addition to their semi-weekly classes, according to Ray Risch, physical education instructor.

Mrs. Augusta Reinke Has Ninetieth Birthday

Seymour—Mrs. Augusta Reinke celebrated her ninetieth birthday Saturday at the old Reinke home on Highway 55, five miles northwest of Seymour.

She has always enjoyed excellent health and has been active in her flower garden. Last fall she husked one hundred bushels of corn.

Mrs. Reinke, nee Quandt, was born in Germany and after her marriage to Julius Reinke, came to Chicago in 1880. Later they moved to High Cliff, Calumet county. About 46 years ago they came to Seymour where they cleared the virgin forest to build the fine farm now operated by her son, John. Her husband died 10 years ago.

Mrs. Reinke is the mother of seven sons, four daughters, and has thirty-nine grandchildren, forty-two great grandchildren, and two great great grandchildren.

Jack Shows He's Still Most Democratic Heavy

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—It begins to appear like this Dempsey-Tunney feud will go on forever in one form or another. Ten years it's been since they last met under the ring lights at Chicago and both long since have become proud parents and solid citizens, but they're still at it worse than the Hatfields and the McCoys.

Tunney started it again the other day when he suddenly went all Democratic and Dempsey paid a long, noisy visit to Max Schmeling's training quarters at Summit, N. J. Everybody realized at the time it was a deliberate steal of Dempsey's stuff, and they predicted Jack wouldn't take it lying down.

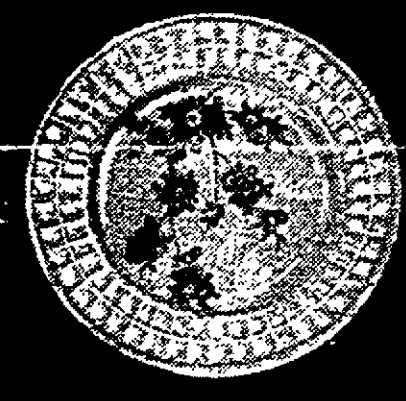

After all, being the most democratic of all ex-heavyweight champions is Jack's chief stock in trade. Whereas there used to be rare characters who bragged they had shaken the hand of John L. Sullivan, it's difficult these days to find a man who hasn't been given a hot-foot by Dempsey, personally.

So Jack struck back yesterday, swiftly and hard. Appearing in a cloud of cigar smoke at the training camp of Harry Thomas, who fights Schmeling Monday night at the Garden, the old mauler did ten rounds of democratic that made Tunney's efforts look puny by comparison.

Jack Starts Bout
He started with a fast three rounds in the camp tavern, during which he shook hands with 18 sports writers, eight sparring partners and six other citizens who just

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Two views of Carole Lombard in the role of liar, and one of Fred Astaire minus Ginger Rogers, brighten the preview week. Miss Rogers having gone on her own in "Stage Door," Astaire undertakes a solo for the first time in "A Damsel in Distress." The picture doubtless will be acclaimed for its own sprightly merits, its better than usual story, its twinkling music by the late George Gershwin, and its even more than usual display of Astaire's dancing tricks in eye-halting settings.

The damsel in question—an English girl mildly imprisoned in a castle because she wants to marry an American—is Joan Fontaine, who is required to dance but one simple number with Astaire, her province obviously being in the charm and beauty department. Actually supplanting Ginger Rogers are George Burns and Gracie Allen, here given their best opportunity for laughs, and abetting Astaire in the hooding as well.

Even for Astaire-Rogers fans, the picture should carry appeal while wetting the appetite for the next co-starrer, already set.

Steal for Barrymore—In "True Confession" Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray are merged under Wesley Ruggles' direction in a wild comedy no less funny for its strain on the credulity. Carole plays a wife whose gift for twisting the truth, for convenience rather than evil design, gets her involved in a murder charge. MacMurray is the painfully honest husband who serves as lawyer for the defense, wins her acquittal on a self-defense plea in the belief Carole really is a murderess, which she isn't.

The picture's tongue is in its cheek as often as Carole's is, this being her unconscious tip-off that creative genius is burning and another whopper is coming. Hilharity reaches its highest point in the courtroom scenes, where satirical irreverence of conventional procedure is manifest. Una Merkel, Porter Hall and Lynne Overman shine in support, by John Barrymore, in a pixie-like role that wanders through the reels to provide the climax, is the picture-stealer.

Well-Rounded Cast—In "Nothing Sacred" Miss Lombard lies again—pretending she is doomed to slow death from radium-poisoning when she knows all along the country doctor (Charles Winninger) has erred in diagnosis. She lies when Frederic March, New York reporter in search of a human interest scoop, arrives to offer sympathy and a glorious final fling at his paper's expense.

This situation starts proceedings as sluggishly as any this addleheaded movie year has seen, sparkling with Ben Hecht dialogue, in the "Front Page" tradition, bristling with Director William Wellman's barbed and lusty pictorial satire of sentimentality, and climaxed by a Lombard-March fist fight which tops all previous screen roughness of the sort. Discounting its necessarily macabre aspects, even the squeamish can find in "Nothing Sacred" a picture notable for savagely honest humor and gusto. Walter Connolly, Sig Rumann, and several minor players make it a uniformly well-acted film which is, incidentally, in technicolor.

Walter Connolly, acquiring a racing stable hasn't decided on a name for his newest yearling. . . . Connolly usually combines names of sire and dam for his pets, but this one came from Shasta Night

High School Five To Meet Menasha Cagers Tonight

Clash Between B Teams Will Precede Main Event at Kaukauna

Kaukauna—Coach Paul E. Little's Kaukauna High school cagers will receive their second test of the season against the Menasha Bluejays tonight in a game scheduled for 8 o'clock at the high school gymnasium. A clash between the B teams of the two schools will precede the main event. The Kaws hold a 35 to 24 victory St. Mary's of Menasha in their first start, with tonight's tilt being their first conference game. Menasha has a decisive win over Clintonville to its credit.

The Kaukauna cagers were given Tuesday afternoon off after their victory Monday night and the rest of the week drilled on fundamentals with very little scrimmaging sandwiched in. Special attention has been paid to the practicing of free throws, with Little warning the basketballers that their lack of skill in this department probably will cost them several games. In the St. Mary's game the Kaws had 18 opportunities via the free throw line but could only convert seven of them. St. Mary's did little better making 8 out of 18, but some Northeastern conference teams have made more than three fourths of their gift shots this season.

The Kaws practiced for two days without the services of Cliff Van-evenhoven, scorer of 13 points in the opening tilt, who was laid up with a strained leg muscle. He was out for practice yesterday, however, and will probably play most of tonight's game. Clifford J. Kemp, assistant coach, had charge of the squad yesterday as Little was confined to his home with a cold, but Little will be directing the team tonight.

The starting lineup for the Kaws this evening will find Bill Alger at center, Bill Peterson and Cliff Van-evenhoven at forward, and Carl Giordana and Leland Lambie in the back court.

The probable lineup for the B cagers is Wolfe, center, Koch and Kalista, forwards, Schwegler and Steffens, guards. This preliminary will begin at 7 o'clock.

Council Adopts $25 Tax Rate for Neenah; $3 Higher

1938 Levy for City Increased $60,000 to $431,000

Neenah—An estimated $60,071.80 increase in taxes for 1938 was authorized by the city council at an adjourned meeting at the city hall Thursday night when it officially set a tax levy of $25 per $1,000, a boost of $3 over this year.

The estimated amount in taxes to be raised next year is $431,010.97 as compared with $371,539.08 for this year. Gross expenditure for next year is estimated at $633,553.72 as compared with $566,552.48, a $71,981.24 increase. Receipts for 1938 are estimated at $206,922.75 as compared with $185,013.40 for this year.

Despite the fact that aldermen slashed about $15,000 off the requested school budget, $700 of the requested library budget, $120 of the proposed park board fund and $400 of the requested board of health budget, increases were allowed in all but three items.

Mayor Edwin A. Kalfas pointed out that the council was disappointed to see the rate increase, but the aldermen were satisfied that it was the only thing to be done in order to operate adequately the city, he added. He further stated that the council has always practiced economy and intends to do so in future and will request departments not within the council's jurisdiction to do likewise.

"Surplus is Wise"

Declaring that it is wise for a city to carry a surplus, the mayor pointed out that funds had been added again to the surplus, and he added that the council did not regard this fund as something which had to be spent.

He concluded, "We feel that the rate is an honest one and not a political one."

Besides being the largest item in the budget, the city school tax, $152,911.14, drew the largest increase, $20,845.69. Estimated gross expenditures for operating the school system next year are $200,980.87, while estimated receipts are $48,069.73. The school bonds amount to $32,025.53, a decrease of $1,041.45. There was also an increase of $1,849.44 in the vocational and adult education fund, which is $12,792.95. Expenses to operate the vocational school will be $18,242.25 with estimated receipts at $9,449.30.

Decreases also were made in the street, highway and bridge fund, $26,276.48 for 1938 as compared with $26,885.92 this year; and in the street light fund, $14,001.47 as compared with $14,490.02.

The sewage disposal plant bonds increased from $5,892.88 this year to $15,173.45 for 1938, while sewage disposal plant operations increased from $15,000 to $27,515, while sewer maintenance and construction increased from $14,997.71 to $11,490.12, a boost of $9,986.41.

There will be a slight increase in the relief fund, from $28,557.84 to $29,884.74, a raise of $1,326.90. The library fund also increased from $9,176.48 to $9,892.52, a $716.04 increase.

The expenses will amount to $10,517.52 with receipts estimated at $625. County and state tax will be $99,971.02, while this year it was $99,886.07, a $20,084.95 boost.

St. Mary will be handicapped tonight because two of the regulars will not be in best condition. Prunuske has played in both games so far but has been handicapped somewhat by his injured arm. He is the tallest man on the team and very necessary in controlling rebounds. Bill Resch received a cut over his eye in the Kaukauna game which put him on the sidelines. He may not be in top condition for tonight's game.

Probable starters for St. Mary will be Tony Will and Clayton Hopfensperger at forwards, Fred Picard and Bill Resch at guards and Prunuske at the pivot position. Others who probably will get into the game for the Zephyrs are Sen-senbrenner, Hoks, Romke, Spalding, Laux and Griesbach.

Academic Section Of High School to Be Ready by Jan. 3

School Officials Planning To Move Into Building During Holiday Recess

Menasha—"Out of the trenches by Christmas" has been supplanted by "Into the new high school by New Years" at Menasha. Len Reiss, supervising engineer, in charge of the construction of the new building this morning stated that the academic and vocational sections of the new building would be ready for use on Jan. 3.

High school officials are planning to move into the new building during the Christmas vacation. The third floor is practically complete now except for cleaning up and painting the wainscoting and finishing some of the floors. Glass must still be installed in some of the doors.

Second floor rooms also have been practically completed. Lockers are being installed on the first and second floors. By the first of next week, locker installation, should be completed. The library is practically complete except for finishing the wood work and installation of book shelves.

Workmen will start to place equipment in the chemistry and science rooms next week. The building will not be complete by the first of the year but the classrooms and offices will be. Work on the auditorium and gym will continue after the classes are being held in the building.

Acoustic equipment is being installed in the band room. The room will be entirely soundproof. In the auditorium workmen are preparing to lay the finish floor and mill work. The rough floor has been completed.

In the gymnasium workmen are completing the underflooring for the hardwood basketball court. Bleachers have been completed and the heating equipment has been installed in the gym. Some small quantity of tile setting remains on some of the stairs and composition floors are being placed in some of the rooms.

Answer to Question 10 Brought Many Protests

BY ELY CULBERTSON
The only question of the examination that produced more answers in disagreement with my decision than answers in support of it was No. 10. This was no surprise to me. The question was a tough one, included deliberately to test tactics. This question was:
You are vulnerable; opponents are not. You are South. West deals and the bidding goes as follows:
West North East South
1 spade Double 3 spades 1
Your holding is:
♠ 6 5 4 2 ♥ 9 7 6 5 3 ♦ K 4 3 ♣ 7
What call do you make?
The answer was: You should bid four hearts, etc.

Some readers were scandalized at the thought that they should enter the bidding freely at the four level, vulnerable, with only one-half an honor trick in their hand. I can sympathize with their fear of such a bid, but this does not alter the fact that four hearts is the best action available to South. Competitive bidding is by far the most difficult to confine within the rigid bounds of rules and requirements. The situation as set forth in the bidding is just this:

North, vulnerable, against a non-vulnerable team, has doubled the highest ranking suit (spades) for a takeout. East, who certainly would prefer to "lay for" vulnerable opponents if his hand warranted, has tried to shut South out of the bidding. Now, for analysis of South's holding. Quite true, he has only one-half an honor trick. But, for all of that, to describe South's hand as horrible is to be grossly inaccurate. South can virtually see that his hand will fit perfectly with North's. First, North's double of spades virtually guaranteed strong heart support. If South passes to three spades West is quite likely to bid four spades. North may have a hand that will then impel him to enter the bidding at the five level; something like this:

♠ S A Q 10 4 ♦ Q S ♣ A Q J 8 7 5
A five club bid by North would be in the nature of a tragedy. South could not rescue with five hearts. Yet there would be a fair play for that contract, and four hearts would be almost a laydown. Thus the four heart bid by South is in the deepest sense an anticipating bid.

TODAY'S HAND
Match point duplicate.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A K 5
♥ A J 8 6 4 3 2
♦ Q
♣ 9 8
EAST
♠ Q
♥ K 10 9 5
♦ A K 7 3
♣ A J 10

SOUTH
♦ 9 8 6 4
♣ K 7 5
The bidding:
North East South West
1 heart Pass 1 spade Pass
2 hearts Double Pass Pass
3 spades Double Pass Pass
Pass
Last's bidding should be studied as a model of correct "trapping." Due to the respective vulnerability conditions, East's pass over one heart was, of course, sound strategy, but he did not make the mistake of "overstaying his market." Although North's three heart rebid was a semi-force, West, with his great defensive strength, properly refused to gamble on the bidding going further. It was much too likely, he realized, that South would refuse to accept the urge and, thus, he (East) would be left high and dry against an undoubted contract. Of course, he did not like three spades nearly as much as he did three hearts, but, having already warned the enemy, he recognized that South's going to four spades, hence he "stepped on" the three bid.

Perfect defense involving spade leads at every opportunity resulted in a 500 point penalty, a good match point score for East-West.

TOMORROW'S HAND
South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♥ Q J 10 4
♣ 10 9
SOUTH
♠ K J

The Palace of the Vatican

The vatican is the largest palace in the world. It is the home of the pope, and contains paintings and statues, museums and libraries of value untold.
As I walked through hall after hall, room after room, my wonder grew. I had known the Vatican contained a rich store of art treasures, but did not expect to see such a vast number of them. Passing from one room to another and turning from time to time, you can walk for miles while in the building.

An officer of the Swiss Guards in the Vatican

The official Vatican guide book says the palace contains "about 1,000 rooms, halls and chapels." It is not a single building but a group of closely-joined buildings. Counting the courtyards, these buildings cover almost 13 acres of ground.
To reach the offices of the Secretary of State, on the third floor of the Vatican, a visitor must climb stairways with 204 steps. Along the way, he sees guards dressed in different ways. The Swiss guards are the best known, but there are also Palatine guards and Noble guards. All the guards I saw were armed with swords.

Among the interesting things I saw in the Vatican was a golden model of a church. The model is about two feet high and five feet long and represents the Church of St. Anthony of Padua.
There are thousands of books in the Vatican libraries. They are kept under lock, and it is hard to obtain permission to handle any of them. Some are on view in glass cases. I saw one known as the "Poor Man's Bible." It is a rare copy of a book published soon after the art of printing became known in Europe.

The "Poor Man's Bible" was presented to the pope by Prince Albert of Saxony 50 years ago. The covers of this copy are studded with diamonds, pearls and other gems.
Some of the hand-written books date back from 1,500 to 1,800 years. I saw the oldest known text of Vergil, the Roman poet.

Letters written by Pope Pius II, King Henry VIII, Martin Luther and Erasmus are all on view in one case.
The Sistine chapel, the world's most famous chapel, is in the Vatican. The walls and the ceiling are covered with paintings by famous artists, including Michael Angelo.

In another section of the Vatican are hundreds of statues of ancient Roman gods, goddesses and heroes. Many were at one time in the country palace of Hadrian, a Roman emperor.

Weather Does Less Harm to Children Than Some Think

BY ANGELO PATRI
Children hate to be bundled up. They feel stiff and clumsy; when they are packed under layers of sweaters and coats and raincoats they can't run and jump as they usually do. They can do with much less clothing than most mothers are inclined to believe. We older folk need wraps and mufflers to protect throats grown tender and chests that have grown wheezy. Not so the children.

They need adequate protection against the cold but no more. We cannot judge what is adequate by our feelings. Nor can we trust to their judgment, for they would gleefully face a blizzard dressed in summer suits. We can depend upon the thermometer. Instead of looking out of the window at the weather and saying, "Put on your heavy overcoat, today," better look at the thermometer that hangs outside the window. That will help you. And the children feel no injury when the thermometer says it is too cold for light coats. They accept its word as they take the weather, something nobody can do much about when they wear their sweaters in classes.

Learn what the conditions there are. Inquire if the teacher advises about sweaters according to temperatures before making any rules yourself. In modern schools we have controlled temperatures. Where the children sit still the temperatures are too high for sweaters. If they go through unheated corridors they need light wraps. If they go outdoors they must put on outdoor wraps. The teachers in charge see to this. It is not necessary, and it is likely to lead to confusion, if you do it to direct the child what to wear in the school building.

Relieve the school child of an umbrella. The smallest children usually have the biggest ones. The struggle the little ones have in balancing the umbrella in a wind, to see ahead and still protect their faces from the oncoming rain, to get up and down stairs, in fact, without doing damage, is just too much. A storm that is too much for ordinary raincoats and hats is too much

Easy to Overdo in Holidays

BY ELSIE PIERCE
The gay, cheery, holiday spirit of Christmas is as stimulating as a cocktail. In proper doses this very spirit can be a beauty treatment, making you feel young, magnanimous and sparkling. But, like most stimulants, there may be a reaction, a let-down feeling if you overdo. You won't have to try very hard to find that you have a surplus store of energy for shopping and doing. Somehow, your endurance powers at this time of the year are limitless. You find you can get up earlier, keep active longer, stay up later and feel quite fresh in spite of it all. Those are the symptoms of the spirit of the season. But, beware. The first minute, the first day you really rest, which like as not will be Christmas day itself, that reaction may creep on you, find you fatigued, tired, your strength completely snapped and no reserve supply, either. And instead of feeling wonderful, you may feel weary, which is particularly sad at such a time.

Same planning is the only solution. Know precisely what you want to do and the easiest, quickest way to do it, but don't overdo. If you organize your shopping, budget time, make out your lists, have a definite picture in your mind's eye of the stores and the floors and the counters where all the gifts may be found, if you avoid spending unnecessary energy, time, or footsteps, then shopping becomes the pleasure it should be, without any pain afterwards. List the floor next to each item and shop in one store, if possible. Purchase all the items obtainable in a given floor or section, at one time. And, if your day's task is not quite done, tomorrow is another day. Recruit the help of others who have less work than you (if you know that you want, if the articles are "standard" you'll save yourself steps, without losing one iota of sentiment). Telephone some of your orders. Let the department store personal shopping service help. And whatever you do, keep a big step ahead of fatigue, always. Stop, long before you begin to feel tired, because fatigue and lines and wrinkles and tears go together. After shopping, if you have ten minutes, rest in bed, knees up, mind blank.

If you are giving beauty to a special friend for Christmas include in the package my two booklets on reducing, "Reduce by Diet" (Booklet 201) and "Reduce by Exercise" (Booklet 202). These booklets cost ten cents EACH. Send for them giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, c-o this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

My Neighbor Says—

To wash woolen stockings so that they will not shrink is quite easy. First shred some yellow soap into a small tin saucer. Cover it with cold water and boil slowly until it is like a jelly. Take some tepid water and with the soiled soap make a good lather. Wash the stockings in this, rubbing well and using no other soap. Rinse in tepid, clear water, wring out and hang in the air to dry quickly.

being separated from their owners. Often several claimants appear for one rubber or one sweater. If each article were plainly marked time and trouble and confusion would be saved everybody concerned.
Winter clothing adds to the teacher's burden, and if mothers will help in this way everybody will be happier.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope for reply.

Aging People Should Know How to Remain Attractive

BY DOROTHY DIX
A distinguished educator, who has as many letters after his name as a plate of alphabet soup has established what he calls the School of Maturates whose purpose is to teach people to live to be a hundred years old or more, and like it. He would be performing a greater service if he started a school to teach men and women how to grow old so other people would like them, for there is small purpose in our becoming centenarians if we are such pests that our families and friends have to pray for strength and patience to endure us.

It is the custom to speak of the aged as if they were always gentle and benign, saints whose presence is a benediction in any household. In reality, most old people are dictatorial and cantankerous and about as soothing to live with as a bunch of nettles. For the old consider that they are giving them a right to make themselves as disagreeable as they please, and only too often they abuse the privilege.

Now, of course, those of us who continue to exist must all grow old, and what a wonderful work any school would perform if it taught us how to make our latter years gracious and agreeable so that we would be persona grata to our children and our grandchildren and our friends and acquaintances, instead of their regarding us as an affliction that they feel they do not deserve, and so there would be welcome on every doorstep for us instead of the keep-out sign.

Such a school should have a kindergarten class for the kiddies of 50 or 60, which should begin with the primary lesson of teaching them to wash their hands and behind their ears and comb their heads. For it is about this time in life that men and women, perceiving that they are no longer Miss Americas or Robert Taylors, began to get slovenly in their clothes and neglect their personal appearance. They let out their corset strings and cut down their heels if they are women; they buy clothes for comfort and not for style, quit bothering about the hang of their skirts and get generally to look like a package that Mother tied up.

If they are men, they get paunchy and fat, have dandruff on their collars and gravy on their waistcoats and are altogether hard on the eyes of the beholder. There is no excuse for Grandma and Grandpa looking like scarecrows in these days of cheap clothes and plenty of soap and water, so the sooner they are taught that if they want people to like to look at them they have to be worth looking at the better.

Then there should be a class in manners. So many old people think that the mere fact that they are 70 or 80 absolves them from all necessity of being courteous and considerate of the feelings of others or even commonly polite. They are gruff, rude and grumpy. Everybody lives in terror of them if they are rich, and leaves them severely alone if they are poor.

It is a great mistake for old people to think that their age is an alibi for being disagreeable because the more we lose our physical charms, the more necessary it is for us to cultivate a charming personality that will draw people to us, instead of driving them from us.

Above all, the school for old people should teach them the fine art of social contacts, or how to be popular when you are 80. It should teach them that when we no longer have beauty and vivacity to attract people to us we must use other means, such as personal attentions, good dinners, flowers, telegrams, little gifts and so on. We all have to buy our way when we grow old. It should teach them to can their reminiscences, for no one wants to know what we did when we were a laughing girl and boy, but every one longs to be lent a listening ear when they talk about themselves, no matter if the ear is slightly deaf.

And, the most important lesson of all, old people should be taught that if they want their sons and daughters to be glad to have them live with them they must deny themselves the pleasure of meddling and advising, which are the two vices of age. Mother must learn that when she sticks her fingers in her daughter-in-law's pie she is stirring up trouble that will end in divorce. Father must learn that if he wants to keep off of his married children's nerves he must quit throwing newspapers and cigar ashes all over the house, and cease being an oracle who knows it all and trying to make his grandchildren do the way he did when he was a boy. We are never too old to learn says the old proverb. Try it.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

A B C'S IN MANNERS

Dear Mrs. Post: I went to visit my married sister during my vacation and while there became great friends with Sally X, a girl just my own age. She was wonderfully nice to me and in fact I met nearly all her own friends and went with her to lots of their houses. I certainly would have had a dull time if it hadn't been for her because my sister's friends are just as much younger. I couldn't help wanting to do something to try to repay Sally for all her kindness and so I invited her to go downtown to have lunch at the best hotel to the matinee at the theatre. She said she couldn't go that day, and as I left two days later I couldn't do anything except write her a long letter of thanks and send her a big box of candy. And now suddenly my sister writes to mother that she just heard that Sally's mother had refused to let Sally go with me because she thought I had been very forward in expecting Sally to accept my hospitality. What's all the fuss about, anyway? Mother doesn't understand any better than I do what was wrong in trying to show my thanks for what she did for me. I sometimes think people have the funniest ideas about what is all right and what is all wrong when both seem as everyday as saying good morning. But I'd like to have your opinion since I'm only fourteen and mother says I must have tried to show off and that I always think I know too much.

Answer: From what you tell me I can only guess that your perfectly natural impulse was taken amiss because of something that ran counter to the customs of that particular neighborhood. It may be that visitors are not permitted to be hostesses or it may be—and this is most likely—your girls are not allowed to go running around the city alone. Asking Sally to go just you and she—to lunch by yourselves in the restaurant of a great hotel and then to go to a theatre may very easily have been thought quite scandalous. In fact, I am not at all sure that it mightn't have been putting ideas in your young friend's head. Two girls of fifteen lurching at a well-known hotel would be disapproved of by many even in New York. Certainly it would imply that not only were you imagining yourself grown up but that your families both took their responsibilities, in looking after you, casually. Young girls of fifteen might perfectly well go to a matinee at the movies together at a neighborhood picture house where every one knows them, and they might of course lunch at a club or a tea-room or even in a small hotel where they and their parents are known. But otherwise I am inclined to think Sally's mother was right, although on her side, to have understood your impulse as it was intended. Yes, I think she should have been worldly wise enough to have understood this.

Ohl Says Labor Is Safe From 'isms' Is Well Organized

220 Persons Attend Convention Banquet of State Carpenter Council

New London — About 220 labor delegates, guests and their wives crowded the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall last night for the convention banquet of the Wisconsin State Council of Carpenters which is convening here this week. New London Furniture Workers local 1642 as host. Business, professional and industrial men of New London were represented at the banquet.

Henry Ohl, president of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, was among the principal speakers. He welcomed the ladies to the dinner and declared that the wives' interest in the men's labor problems was a great asset to the labor movement. The rapid growth of women's auxiliaries all over the nation is proof that the women are troubling themselves to learn about labor and industrial problems, he said.

No form of government, including the many "isms," can defeat labor if labor is organized sufficiently and managed intelligently, Ohl asserted. The teaching service of tax paid schools should extend to the training of labor as well as to the preparation of men for business, he maintained, and such a realization is one aim of the federation of labor.

George H. Lakey, Indianapolis, Ind., first general vice president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, spoke briefly on the objectives of the brotherhood. The carpenter organization has been neither spectacular nor aggressive in its work; he pointed out, but has progressed peaceably to a large membership and brought improved working conditions to many. The influence of the brotherhood in legislation was greatly instrumental in the formation of Wisconsin's unemployment insurance laws, he reminded.

Traces History

Fred E. Gastrow, president of the state council of carpenters, traced some of the history of the New London Furniture Workers local and praised its accomplishments.

Among prominent labor leaders introduced by Roy E. Shaw, secretary-treasurer of the council who acted as toastmaster at the banquet, were J. D. Norion, secretary-treasurer of the Iowa State council; John H. Bakken, Twin Cities District Council committeeman from St. Paul, Minn.; Jay A. Hathaway, Milwaukee, first vice president of the state Carpenters' council; and John V. Meyett, Superior, second vice president.

Committeemen from Wisconsin districts who are on the executive board were introduced including two newly elected yesterday. All former members present were Emil Waldow, Green Bay, representative for this district; Walter Jensen, Racine; Henry Munchow, Janesville; Charles Burdick, Eau Claire; Leonard Ellinger, Wisconsin Rapids, was elected to the post of August Starford, of the same city who chose not to run. Henry Kreutzfeldt, Milwaukee, was added to the board as an additional member in accordance with regulations adopted last year.

Lauds Cooperation

R. W. McFarlin, Milwaukee organizer directing the strike at the Hamilton and Sons Canning company plant, returned from out-of-town business in time to visit the banquet hall and was called on to speak. He praised the Furniture Workers local for the cooperation given in the maintenance of the strike.

A telegram was read from George Hambrecht, state director of vocational education, expressing his regret at being unable to attend the dinner and program. The dinner was served by the VFW auxiliary and high school talent entertained with instrumental and vocal solos.

All officers of the state council were reelected at the afternoon business session of convention delegates and appeared in their official capacity at the banquet. Gastrow has been president of the organization since its inception 19 years ago.

Ten more resolutions were disposed yesterday, most of them pertaining strictly to matters of the organization.

One resolution adopted provides for the establishment of local joint apprenticeship committees enlisting employer and employees to co-operate with the state apprenticeship committee in the development of apprenticeship practices.

Name New London Defendant in Suit For $7,700 Damages

Action Against City Based On Death of Byron Christian, Jr.

New London—An action for damages of $7,700 for the death of Byron Christian, Jr., was started yesterday in the circuit court of Waupaca county against the city of New London by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Christian, Sr., of this city, through their attorneys, Walter Melchoir of this city and Goggins, Brazeau and Graves of Wisconsin Rapids. Papers were filed in the hands of Irvin Ziebell, constable, to serve on city officials.

The 14-year-old youth was electrocuted the evening of Aug. 3 when he took hold of a fallen electric wire north of the Embarras river beyond St. John's place.

A claim of $15,000 presented to the New London common council in August was shelved by that body. According to the complaint no offer of settlement ever was made by the city after the claim was filed.

The new action is based on allegations of negligence on the part of the city in failing to maintain trans-game. Dan Meschke gathered a 195 line and 502 total.

Council Will Act on 1938 Budget Tonight

New London — The 1938 city budget is scheduled for adoption by the New London common council at an adjourned meeting at the city hall at 7:30 this evening. Department budgets have been under study for over a month and after many meetings with the various groups and many hours of work the finance committee is prepared to submit figures to the council.

Some changes may be in order and a great deal of discussion as the city fathers seek to lower or at least maintain the $36 tax rate of 1937.

New London—The Hatten Lumber company squad defeated Johnson's Service cagers 16 to 10 in a preliminary game at Hortonville last night. # Canning Company Officials Receive Union Ultimatum

Deadline Lifted Pending Conference at Hamilton Plant

New London—An ultimatum demanding that the Hamilton and Sons Canning company sign the original agreement offered by the newly organized Canning factory local No. 1107, stipulating a closed shop and 75 per cent increase in wages, was presented to officials of the Hamilton company Wednesday by Ellis Hunter, business agent for the International Hod Carriers and Common Laborers' local at Racine.

Unless signed by 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the union threatened to withdraw firemen maintaining heat in the plant but the action was deferred when a conference between plant and union officials was tentatively set for next Monday, according to Henry E. Hamilton, president of the Canning company.

County authorities were contacted after the ultimatum was received by telephone about 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. The threat was withdrawn by Hunter after a conference with Sheriff Duncan Campbell and Mayor E. W. Wendlandt in the latter's office.

Hamilton officials said that elimination of heat from the building at this time would cause untold damage for which the city is liable.

An investigation at Madison by C. H. Cashin, attorney for the Hamilton company, disclosed that the

Veterinarians of 4 Counties Confer On Stock Sanitation

New London — About a dozen veterinarians from Outagamie, Waupaca, Oneida, and Brown counties attended a meeting of the Northeastern Wisconsin Veterinarians association at the Elwood hotel Wednesday evening. A discussion on the new regulations for livestock sanitation and other problems followed a 6:30 dinner.

The group meets quarterly but the attendance Wednesday night suffered because of the unfavorable weather. The meeting next spring will be held at Appleton.

New Church Schedules Adopted at New London

New London—A change in the hour of out-of-town services, effective Sunday, was announced yesterday by the Rev. R. R. Holliday, pastor of the New London Methodist church. Stephensville services will be at 9:30 Sunday mornings and at 2:30 in the afternoon at Bear Creek. The hour of services at the New London church will remain the same.

Services at the First Congregational church here will be one hour earlier than formerly, Sunday school at 9 o'clock and the sermon services at 10 o'clock. The change will be in effect this Sunday and continue until further notice.

Franks Pure Food Canning company at Franksville is the only unionized canning plant of several hundred in Wisconsin, Hamilton officials revealed. Demands of the New London local have been based strongly on the closed shop agreement with the Franksville plant.

110 Yule Baskets Needed This Year

Associated Charities Map Plans for Christmas Aid

New London—About 110 Christmas baskets will be needed this year by the Associated Charities, it was determined at a meeting of the check list committee, officers of the organization and representatives of New London industries at the city hall yesterday afternoon. Last year 106 baskets were distributed.

The various soliciting and purchasing committees are busy now gathering material for the boxes. Contributions of fruit and vegetables are being received from townspeople at the County Relief Commodity depot at 111 S. Pearl street.

Old and discarded toys will be taken by A. F. Christ, high school principal, to be repaired and repainted by boys of his manual arts classes at Washington High school. Because of the Christmas vacation, donors have been asked to bring in their old toys before next Wednesday so the boys will have time to fix them. If Mr. Christ is notified, arrangements will be made to collect as many articles as necessary from the homes.

hour earlier than formerly, Sunday school at 9 o'clock and the sermon services at 10 o'clock. The change will be in effect this Sunday and continue until further notice.

M. F. HOOVER and MIKE HEILMEIER, Proprietors

For the past two months we have been ripping, tearing, and remodeling, and rebuilding this into one of the most modern bakeries in this part of the state.

Now with new equipment, new counters, new ovens, and new decorations throughout, we are ready to greet our patrons, with the finest line of baked goods they could expect.

In addition to the regular selection of bread, cookies, cakes, and rolls, we offer a variety of different products each day.

Because of our many years of bakery experience in Fort Atkinson, and other cities, we feel we are able to give you a finer selection of things that you will really enjoy.
